

ROCKACHAWS SWAMP LABICHE-GRAFF OF NEW ORLEANS SUNDAY, 10TH

Rockachaws of "Old Stanislaus" Adds Another Victory to Their Already Long List—Large Crowd of Fans
See Local Team Take Game By 14 to 4.

Preparatory to spending the Easter holidays with their homefolks away from college, the rampant Rockachaws crossed bats with the Labiche & Graff team, of New Orleans, on Sunday, April 10th, and defeated them by jughanded score of 14 to 4 out at Rockachaw Park before a very large and enthusiastic crowd of fans.

The visitors started off as though they were going to give the Rocks a few lessons in the fine old game. Hank Egloff went on the mound to serve them potions and they found all the lad had as very much to their liking, therefore they proceeded to slam the pill all over the big lot and scored a brace of runs before the bats could stop the mad rush. Commagere rushed in Cotton Collier, the ace he carries up his sleeve, and the boy put a period to their batting sentence.

When the Rockachaws got the willow they started a slug fest, which lasted them three tallies before they were stopped, then in the next inning they added four more. The visitors worked up a lonely in the next two innings and that ended their scoring for the day.

Collier worked till the sixth and gave way to "Pete" Perry, who decorated the mound with his confident smile and delivered such a brand of horse-hide slinging that the Clothiers were at his mercy from the first ball, and failed to get a hit, they came fear it in the ninth, Scully slammed out a line drive to right field that had the ear marks of a double, but "Jew" Fabacher hadn't been reckoned with, the blonde speed demon raced after it and pulled the stands when he stabbed the ball down for an out.

Fabacher evidently found his future home out in the right garden, for he played the position with great credit. He also gets credit for a triple that he stretched into a homer in the fifth, which added to the three singles, gave the blondy four hits out of five trips to the plate.

The whole team, with but few exceptions, fattened averages, and garnered the next number of seventeen safeties during the battle.

Big Zeke, so far, is home-runless, going no farther than a double. Matt Montz has his eye on the pill, equaling Fabacher's record of four out of five.

Commagere shifted his field and found such a neat fit that it is possible he will utilize the selection for a while. Versatility is a fine thing among ball players and the head coach knows it well. The infield change puts Bontemps or Glover as backstops, Montz at first, Schwartz on the keystone sack, Bonura at short and Rinaudo still hanging on to the hot corner.

To Play Springhill Sunday, April 24. Sunday, April 24th, Springhill College comes from Mobile for a game. The locals are getting warmed up and will give the Badgers some hot game.

SEE 200 MILES IN LATEST TESTS OF NEW INVENTION CALLED TELEVISION

Visions of a person while sitting at home witnessing and hearing events miles away are a step nearer realization.

In a demonstration of an invention perfected by engineers of the American Telephone and Telegraph company Herbert Hoover spoke over a telephone in Washington this week and was seen as well as heard in the Bell Telephone laboratories at New York, 200 miles away.

The invention also brought the likeness and offerings of radio performers at Whippany, N. J., to an audience in downtown New York, 40 miles away.

Still a Big Problem. Scientists, however, would not go so far as to foresee the day when television will be of practical everyday use. Face to face telephone conversations are still a problem for the future.

The invention was hailed by engineers as having "a real place in the world's work of distant communication." Television, Secretary Hoover said in his address, proves that "human genius has destroyed the impediment of distance."

The moving likeness of Secretary Hoover and the radio performers—shot over wires and flashed through the ether—were seen on a rectangular screen, the size of a cigar box, and later reflected on a screen in full view of a group of scientists, electrical technicians and others.

Images Clearly Seen. Officials of the telephone company and guests at the demonstrations talked with men from New York to Washington. The images in Washington were clearly discernable on the small screen in New York, but results on the larger screen were not so clear.

What went on in New York was not seen by Secretary Hoover or the radio broadcasters. Although the equipment in Washington and Whippany could have been provided, the American Telephone and Telegraph company, responsible for the accomplishment, deemed it unnecessary for the purposes of demonstration.

Well Started It. The demonstration was the result of research and experimentation, starting with the invention of the telephone by Alexander Graham Bell half a century ago. Study will be continued in the search for higher efficiency.

The basic principles of television are similar to those of the telephone. Like telephone instruments, electrically sensitive to sound, the television details are sensitive of light.

The subject, as he talks, is scanned by three "great" photo-electric eyes, the largest photo-electric cells ever built. The impressions made on these cells are transmitted into varying intensities of electric current and carried over wire or wave length to the receiving end where machines reverse the current back into light and shade. The result is a reproduction of the picture scanned by the electric eyes.

At times during Mr. Hoover's address the likeness on the screen was recognizable, but at others it so faded and rippled as if water were running over it, that it became nothing but a formless shadow. Again, at changing moments, only a pair of eyebrows or an ear, or a mouth would be visible as the secretary's voice boomed from the loud speaker.

The demonstration was held in the laboratories in West street, New York.

Like Magic Cabinet. The combined telephone and television instruments were set in a cabinet shrouded from outer lights by heavy curtains, cabinet reminiscent of those in which the stage magician places the woman who is mysteriously to disappear.

After Secretary Hoover had addressed the gathering in New York business associates in the two cities exchanged greetings and those on the New York end viewed the men they were in communication with on the smaller screen.

For this demonstration, no television receiving apparatus had been installed at Washington, although this could easily have been done had such action been necessary to demonstrate the television had been placed upon a practical basis.

Likeness Very Dear. The first exchange, after the official greetings, passed between Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press, in Washington, and Carl S. Brandenburg, of the New York office of the Associated Press. The likeness of Mr. Noyes was clear in New York that the scintillation of light on his spectacles as he moved his head in speaking could be seen plainly.

The next part of the demonstration, it having been conclusively shown that television by telephone wire was actually possible, the radio program from Whippany, N. J. Here again the likenesses of the speakers were thrown on the large screen and were with almost no exception distinct. Newspapermen who spoke after a man and woman entertainer had sung were easily recognized by their associates in New York.

Sensitized to Light. Although the mechanism of television is naturally immensely technical in detail, its basic principles may be compared to those of the telephone. As in the telephone, instruments are used which are electrically sensitive to sound, so now instruments have been devised sensitive in a like way to light.

The subject, as the telephones, is "placidity scanned" by three "great" electric eyes, the largest photo-electric cells ever built. The impressions made on these cells are translated in varying intensities of electric current and as such are carried over wire or wave length. At the receiving end machines have been invented which can turn the varying current back into light and shade and so reproduce the image of the scene scanned by the "electric eyes." More than 15 complete images of the scene are sent over wires or air every second, so that motion of the subject has no more of perkiness than a moving picture.

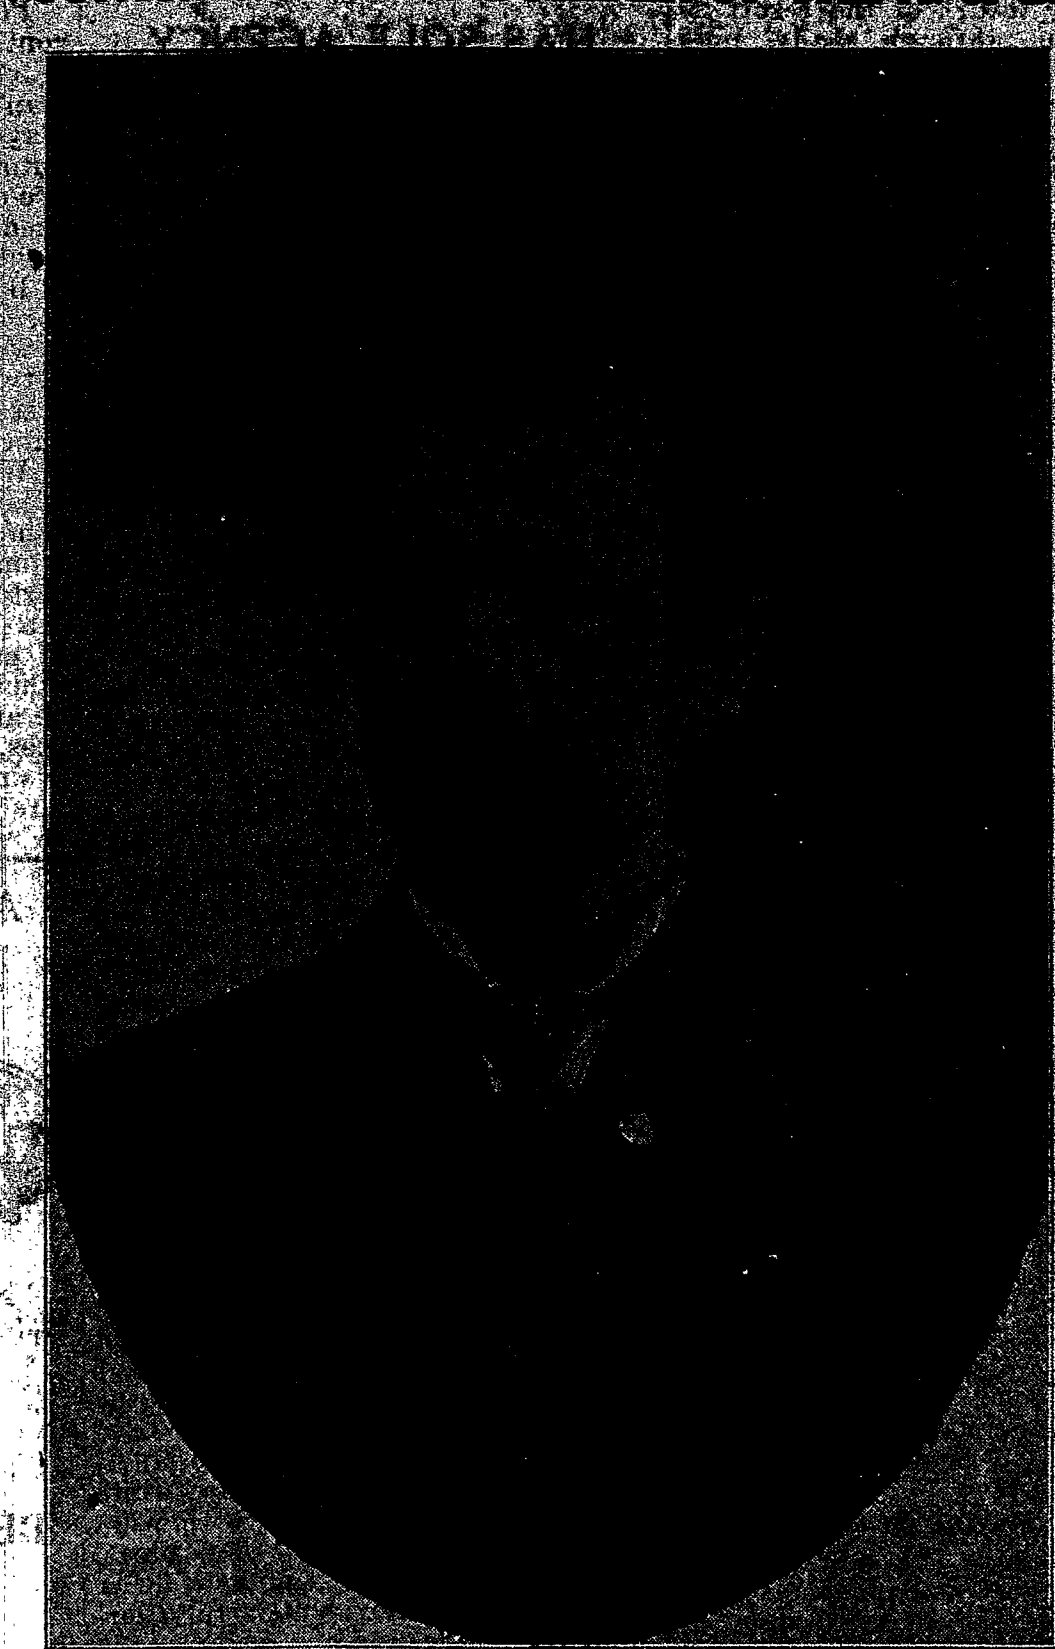

The company announced that there is no one inventor of television, many scientists at the laboratories having co-operated in its development, but three men were mentioned as having contributed most to the research which led to the present stage. The three are Herbert E. Ives, son of Frederick E. Ives, inventor of the halftone process of reproduction; Frank Gray and H. M. Stoller.

Hope For Rigolets Span As Soon As Chef Belief

The opinion that bids for construction of the free bridges across the Rigolets and Chef Menteur will be asked by July 1 provided the permit for the former structure is issued as promptly as that for the Chef Menteur bridge, was expressed by James M. Fourmy, state highway engineer at Baton Rouge, this week. The permit for the Chef Menteur span was issued in Washington Tuesday.

Emperor Hirohito, the new ruler of Japan, will have the imperial palace fitted up according to western ideas.

CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER OF THE A. & G.

JOHN T. McDONALD.

John T. McDonald, residing at Pass Christian, but who has comparative little spent as much of his earlier life in Bay St. Louis, is at home at both places and is equally as well known. Everybody knows "John Mc" as he is popularly called. He is the contractor and builder of the new A. & G. theater and how well he has built is best attested to by the finished structure which will bear the most minute inspection.

In Bay St. Louis he has constructed many of the brick and more prominent buildings, notably of the number are: Bay St. Louis Central High School (McDonald & Favre), Hancock County Bank, Merchants Bank, Catholic Seminary building, Bay-Waveland Yacht club, gymnasium at St. Stanislaus college and his latest triumph is the A. & G.

He has also built both the Hancock County Bank building at Pass Christian and Hancock County Bank building recently completed at Long Beach. Associated with Mr. McDonald are his sons, who have followed in the footsteps of their father manifesting the same ability and painstaking efforts.

Mr. McDonald was mayor of Pass Christian and has held other public office from time to time, and is known nationally as one of the more successful tarpon fishermen, his acquaintance in this line extending over the United States.

Personally, Mr. McDonald is most engaging, well versed and of wide experience; a successful executive. He married a Bay St. Louis lady, Miss Julia Taconi, and has a splendid and useful family of grown-up children. He is fine type of citizen and has helped in more ways than one to build the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

BAY ST. LOUIS IS EXCELLENT TOWN TO MAKE HOME

The Knockers Might Be Found Here in Spasmodic Instances, But After All Said and Done, It Is a Rare Avis—Don't Like It, Get Out

Every town has ones, and some towns have even more, and Bay St. Louis is no exception in this particular. The one or more individuals referred to in the above sentence are the pessimists, hammer swingers, mud singers, knockers or whatever you may choose to call them. No matter how bright things may appear on the surface, these fellows squint their eyes, drag out a microscope or something else for closer inspection, and within a jiffy they'll point out to you that things are not what they seem, but behind the whole scheme there is bound to follow disaster by some other dire calamity. They move about like some dark threatening cloud, mumbling warnings to all who will lend them an ear, and by their adverse criticism dig hard at the foundation of any progressive movement, not matter in what line it may happen to be. It makes no difference whether they are affected they make it their business to do a little knocking and by so doing they retard to a greater or less degree the progress and prosperity of the community in which they live.

The other day one of these gloom boys got a lot of this calamity blowing off his chest and during his ravings had a few remarks to make about the town in which he lives. According to him everything is about to go to smash, and the town is about the worst on the American continent. Almost any other place a fellow could mention offered greater advantages than did his home town. He paid his respects to the city government, to the churches, to the schools, to the people in general. Not a single word of commendation did he have to offer for any of them.

Finally after he had been permitted to continue in this line of bunk for some time, one of his listeners broke into the conversation, and informed the gentleman that there are trains leaving this town every day in the week, and if he did not like the way things are going on around here, perhaps he could find another which was more to his liking.

Bay St. Louis is a pretty good sort of a place in which to live. Maybe we don't have a lot of things some other town may have, but on the whole, I am of the opinion that Bay St. Louis is just about an average place for the size of the community. There are some towns larger and perhaps a little more progressive, but I take it that on the other hand you will find a lot of other places which are not quite as up to the standard as our town. Our churches are doing

The Chef Bridge.

A dispatch from Washington brings news of the approval by the War Department of the permit for the building by the Highway Commission of the free bridge across Chef Menteur. This is the result of the hearing recently held in New Orleans to determine whether or not the bridge would be an interference with navigation. During and subsequent to the hearing the Highway Commission agreed to certain changes in the plans which the action of the War Department means, meet every possible safeguard to craft passing in and out of the pass.

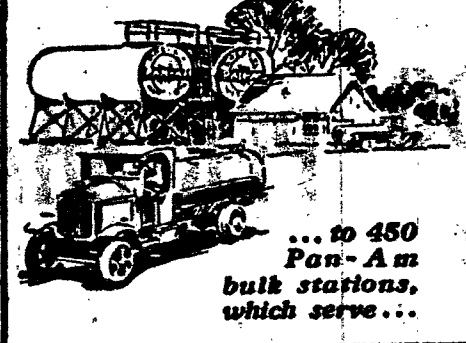

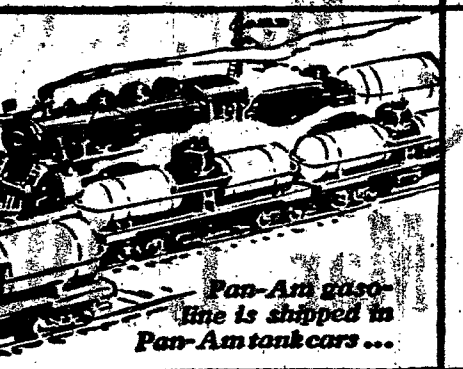

According to Engineer Fourmy, this clears the way for early construction of the bridge. The project, it is promised, will now be prepared without delay and so carefully have the plans been worked out that bids, it is confidently expected, will come well within the estimates made of the cost. Once work is started the bridge should be ready for traffic within a year, and ferry service at the Chef eliminated, thereby cutting the cost and saving much time to motorists traveling to and from the Florida Parishes and the Coast.

The situation may, therefore, be said to be encouraging, due to the business-like manner which Gov. Simpson's new commission has taken hold of the matter, for the comparatively early fulfillment of the people's mandate for the free bridges to close the gaps now existing in the Old Spanish Trail so far as Louisiana is concerned.—N. O. States.

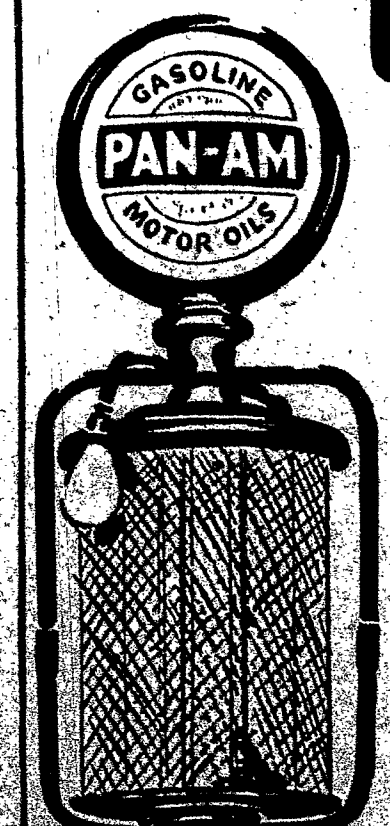

Just about the same work that other churches are doing; our schools are educating our children just about as well as children are being educated elsewhere; and I believe our city fathers are doing the best they can with the funds at their disposal, and until I find some positive proof to the contrary I am going to continue in this belief. We have a lot of good homes here, and we have as good a citizenry as you will find anywhere.

"My friend, perhaps you have been so busy looking for the faults of the community, you have not had the time to see any of her advantages. If I were you, I would look around me just a little; take a walk up one street and down another. Get acquainted with your town and the people who live here. If you will do this, I am sure you will have a different viewpoint."

"I am pretty well satisfied with Bay St. Louis, if I were not, then I would look for some other town in which to live and raise my family. If what you say is true, it certainly shows bad judgment on your part to remain here. If the town and everything in it is hell bound, I sure would get out and get out quick, and let her slide before I get wound up in the wreckage and took the same course as the rest of things here are taking, according to your ideas."

It costs no more to play safe!

THERE are thousands of Southern motorists who would gladly pay more for Pan-Am gasoline and motor oils.

Q They know it is worth money to them to deal with good business men such as Pan-Am dealers are. Add they have found that Pan-Am gasoline goes further, pulls stronger, starts easier. But this dependable service and better gasoline costs you nothing extra.

Q The high quality of Pan-Am products never changes. They are made and marketed by one organization—whose constant aim is to give Southern motorists the best that can be produced. Q Be on the safe side when you buy. Stop at the cream-colored Pan-Am pump.

CLERMONT HARBOR SECTION'S PROSPERITY SEEN IN IMPROVEMENTS

Scenic Beauty of Locality Facing the Broad Gulf Has No Equal—Many Improvements Attracting Attention Outside Public.

By CHARLES H. CAMPBELL
(Morning Tribune Staff Correspondent)

Clermont Harbor, Miss., April 13.—This is where the Mississippi Gulf Coast begins.

Its beginning is under a stiff breeze which rolls the open gulf almost up to the steps of the hotel and murmurs through the tops of stately, swaying pines.

Before this there are Ansley and Claiborne and Lakeshore, three tiny settlements between the Pearl river boundary of Louisiana and Mississippi, and this summer suburb of New Orleans. But the three, although they have nearly as large a winter population as Clermont Harbor, seem not to be a part of the Gulf Coast's consciousness of itself.

Trains did not always stop at the little platform which is the station of Clermont Harbor. For many years after the lines ran through here, they did not pause for passengers.

There was no harbor then; no Clermont Harbor. Here was Ioor's Bluff, not really a bluff but wooded high land between two stretches of low-lying marsh. Here came hunters and fishermen.

George W. Logan, real estate operator, of Waveland, remembers those days.

"I hunted as a boy over the land which now is Clermont Harbor," he said. "No one lived there. For miles behind it there were virgin forests of pine. That was 50 years ago."

Beginning Unknown.
No one seems to know just when people began to live on Ioor's Bluff, professional hunters and fishermen settled sporadically. Some stayed. Others, more nomadic, moved on.

Among the first were the Garcias. Robert Garcia owns one of the settlement's three stores today.

"I was born here," he said. "My father and mother were the first to come here. When they came I do not know."

Other people drifted in after the Garcias, a total of seven or eight families.

From then until 1909, the people of Ioor's Bluff slept in the bright sun, cooled by Gulf breezes. At that time Charles W. Hopkins, of Washington, interested himself in the settlement. He had acquired large areas of land. He built a hotel and dredged a channel into and through the marsh on one side, to form a lake, a land-locked, smooth-watered harbor for small craft.

New Orleans people began to go to this new harbor called Clermont for fishing and bathing, and quiet in the hot summer months which were tempered there by the breezes from the Gulf. But only a few New Orleans families built summer cottages as permanent summer homes.

Then came the "boom" of the entire Gulf Coast, the awakening of the people to its possibilities. More New Orleans families built summer cottages until now there are nearly a hundred, although the winter population still numbers only twelve families.

Hotel Remodeled.
Last year Mr. Hopkins remodeled the old hotel at considerable expense. He refurnished it throughout in tasteful, cool wicker furniture. He added a large dancing pavilion, filled in some of the lower land, and added large screened porches. The hotel has 32 rooms.

The Mexican Gulf Land company was formed under the leadership of Felix H. Kuntz, New Orleans real estate broker. A large parcel of the Hopkins land was subdivided and sold as building lots to New Orleans families. John C. Regan is resident representative of the land company, living with his wife in a unique cabin built of pine logs.

I found the hotel closed today. It will not open until June. Mr. Hopkins is expected next month to make the necessary arrangements. By that time most of the hundred cottages will be alive with Orleanians over for the summer. A delightful old couple, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Roane, have charge of the hotel in the meantime. There could be no better cook than Mrs. Roane, nor any more cordial host.

At rest in the channel entrance of the harbor was the motor yacht Alancia of the Southern Yacht club. She had come in Tuesday night from West End and Mandeville.

Mr. Regan had gone to the city but Miss Regan, who had been in the city for the night, had just returned and was waiting for him.

"We are only a few miles from the city," she said. "By train it is 90 minutes from the city to the hotel."

Our drive led us past the station where Mrs. Regan pointed out the workmen busy on the new concrete station soon to replace the smaller wooden one.

The station, the road led away from the railroad tracks into the pines, sweet-smelling and cool, and ran on like a poet's lane, ever-winding throughout the mile to Waveland.

The greater part of the Gulf-front property from Clermont Harbor to the Waveland corporation line is part of the Jackson House property, now under lease to the African Methodist church, which uses the old Jackson home as a theological school for negroes.

The home itself is worth ten times as long a trip, dignified in all its simplicity.

Gulfport soon will have a roof garden. The one on the Markham hotel is well underway and will be finished in time for dances this summer.

I was told along the Coast in and about Clermont Harbor that the Southern railroad has acquired a short lumber road, which runs into Ansley and is considering making a port of that place, with through Southern service. But verification of the reports is impossible. Apparently the wish had been father to the thought.

Fast Moving Scenes.
From a train in the sunrise hours between Gulfport and Clermont Harbor: Small houses on the edge of town. A gray-white road following the railroad. Tall, thin pines. A sign, "Beach Park Place," a wide open area with paved sidewalks and well graded streets, a subdivision. A little station, Long Beach. The road beside the rails is whiter. In the distance a large, red-roofed farm house.

More pines. Again streets in the open. Houses nestling in the pines. Rural mail boxes. Cottages. "Past Christian," with the grass of the station particularly well kept, a paved road leading away from it. White-washed fences. A tiny cemetery. Everything is so quiet. More pine. Negroes stirring in small cottages. Negroes working in a field, one barefoot behind a plow. At last people are waking. Pines, pines, pines, the tiny ones knee high, their tops the light green of the grass. Rose-tipped grey clouds. The sun shining on houses in the distance. Sand piled up from a newly edged lake, some development. "Henderson Point." The

RAYMOND STORE HAS SELLING AGENCY FOR THE VICTOR

The Ray Music Store, located in the Masonic Temple, has the exclusive agency in Bay St. Louis for the Victor Orthophonic Machine, and will give free demonstrations.

It represents, perhaps, the last step for some time to come in the series of startling innovations begun by the Victor company with the introduction of the new Orthophonic Victrola, an instrument 100 per cent. more perfect in the reproduction of musical sound than the old phonograph.

The new instrument, for the present, is to be known as the "Victor Orthophonic Sound Reproducing Apparatus," an ingenious mechanical device which may be compared, perhaps, to a magazine rifle. A dozen records, either ten or twelve inch, are placed on a spindle, which is then snapped into the cabinet. A lever is turned, the first record is placed on the turntable by an automatic arm and the music begins. For an hour or more the concert continues, the recorders the spindle reaching the turntable without human attention, while the records just played are slipped into a slot. The automatic device is absolutely fool-proof and, of course, need not be used by the persons desiring only a single record.

But, for "concerts" in the home, for dinner music or for dancing, the new instrument is ideal. The pause between records is barely perceptible, just enough, for instance, to give dancers a breathing spell.

With the new machine it will be possible for opera lovers to play a complete symphony, a complete scene from an opera, a piano or violin concerto with orchestra or, for that matter, any single kind of any variety of music, an hour in duration. Another concert of another hour may be arranged within two or three minutes, simply by placing the records desired on the spindle, snapping it into the cabinet and turning the switch.

Day By Day in Mississippi

By Helen Goodwin Yerger

(Copyright 1927.)

Sea Coast Echo Jackson Edge. Room 191, Lamar Life Ins. Bldg., Jackson, Miss., April 14, 1927.

Campaign headquarters were opened this week by those of the gubernatorial candidates who had the previously done so, and additional personnel announced in one or two cases.

Mr. A. C. Anderson has not named a manager as yet, but his publicity is being handled by E. L. Barry, newspaper man of experience, covering many states of the Union and many metropolitan papers, including the Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Mr. Conner's official manager has not been named as yet, but Mr. C. E. Dorroh, executive secretary of the Conner Campaign Committee, former Assistant in the office of the Attorney-General and a man of ability and influence, is in charge of the headquarters office; Mr. Murphree has named Rev. Frank Dunn, of Greenwood, pastor of the Christian church, as his official manager, convention of that denomination, who is said to be equally interested in affairs of church and state, as his manager. Mr. Bilbo, whose organization has been completed for some time with the exception of managers named this week Hannon B. Graves, of Bilboville, a newspaper man, lawyer and former public official of Jones county.

Mr. Bidwell Adam, of Pass Christian, candidate for Lieutenant Governor, is the only non-resident aspirant for a minor office to open headquarters in the capital city. He announced this week that in addition to the office at Pontotoc, which is in charge of E. T. Winston, who will have charge of his affairs in North Mississippi; and that maintained at Gulfport since the beginning of his candidacy, he will shortly open headquarters in Jackson with a capable man in charge.

The headquarters of all four gubernatorial candidates are within two blocks of each other on Capitol street. Chairman of State Democratic Executive Committee Mahon's statement in view of the wholesale charges of gross violations of the absent voter law in the last state primary election, Maj. W. Calvin Wells, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, has issued an address to the County Executive Committees, Registrars, election officers, and the rank and file of the Democratic party, men and women, calling attention to the penalties of $500 fine and six months imprisonment for violations of the law. Maj. Wells, as chairman and spokesman for the State Executive Committee of the party, says it is a duty laid first upon the County Executive Committee to effectuate fair and honest nominations between party men and women, and the State Democratic Executive Committee, as far as in its power lies, will certainly see to it that the coming primary election shall be honestly administered, and that frauds, if any, will be presented to the full extent of the law. Maj. Wells further declares that "no honest candidate would seek or desire any unfair or illegal action in his behalf."

Chairman Wells also cites the law, Sec. 6410, "Hemmingway's Code," which provides that all candidates for state, county or district offices shall be assessed for the same amount to defray expenses of printing ballots and holding elections, and earnestly urges compliance with this law, citing past instances where candidates for state offices have been charged five to ten times as much as county candidates, a practice which if continued in any large number of counties "will make it impossible for a poor man or woman, or one of moderate means, to aspire to a state, judicial or congressional office."

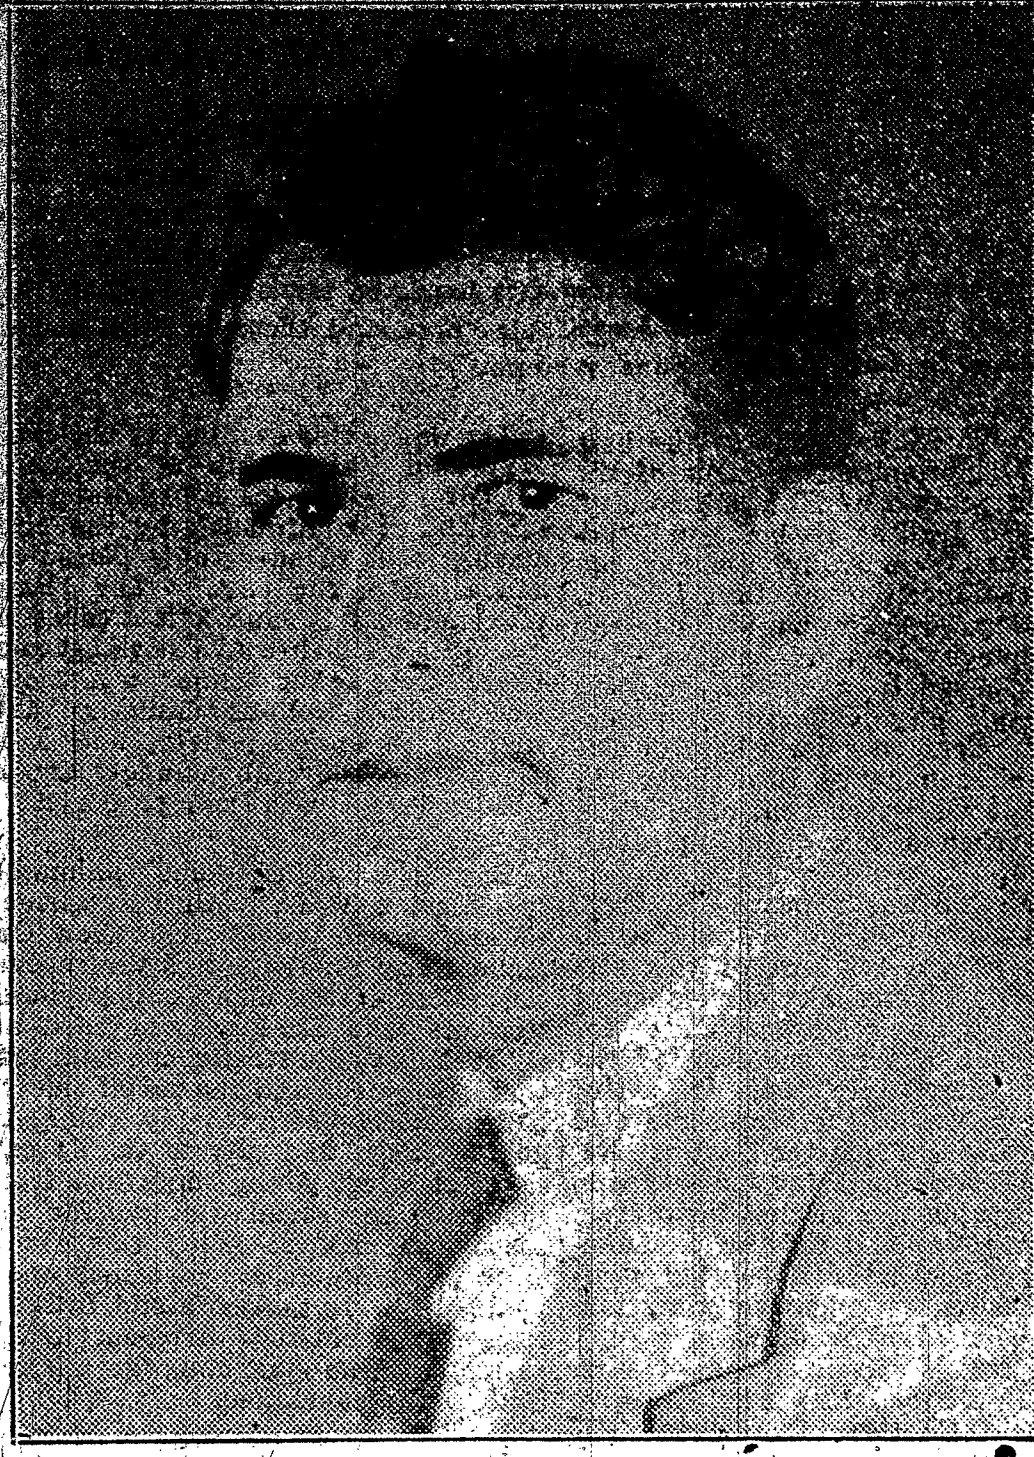

W. M. U. Convention at Meridian. One of the important state meetings of the week was the 49th annual convention of the Mississippi Women's Baptist Missionary Union at Meridian with 200 delegates and more than 600 other women in attendance. Mrs. A. J. Aven, president was in the chair for the convention and was re-elected for the coming year. McComb was named as the convention city for 1928.

Presbyterian Educational Fund Raised.

Mississippians in general and Mississippi Presbyterians in particular are rejoicing in the fact that the campaign committee of the Mississippi Million-Dollar Campaign for Presbyterian Schools announced this week that the $750,000 goal has been reached, which means that all conditional subscriptions now become binding, and that all funds collected belong available to Belhaven College, Chamberlain-Hunt Academy, Synodical College for Girls, French Camp and Chickasaw College.

State's Factory Inspection Law Imperfect.

Dr. R. S. Dunn, state factory inspector, is in favor of extending the scope of the law under which his department operates and tightening up its provisions as to women and children especially. As operating now, the law gives him jurisdiction over but 26 types of industry and a total of 212 plants, including 34 bakeries, 30 bottling plants, 28 sea food packing houses, 16 cotton mills, 16 wood-working plants, 15 printing plants and 6 ice cream factories. The list does not include industrial plants that employ men exclusively, so is not an industrial index for Mississippi. Of the total of 5,941 persons employed in these 26 industries 519 are white women, 539 colored women, 33 are white children and 25 colored children. Almost twice as many colored men are employed as white, and more than four times as many men as women.

BIDWELL ADAM,

Candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, opens headquarters at Jackson.

Federation Convention Program Announced.

Miss Susie V. Powell, state president, and Mrs. J. W. Provine, chairman of the program committee, announced last night the program of the Mississippi Federation of Women's Clubs, which begins on the 20th of this month—the 29th anniversary of the state organization. Every minute of the time is filled with interest and pleasure. Among the features of the three-day celebration being the music and art contests at 10 o'clock on the opening day; a lecture on "The Wedgewood Pottery" by Mrs. Anna Oustatt; a chorus, "Mississippi," led by the Hillman College Glee club, under the direction of Frank Slater; address of welcome to Jackson by Boyd Campbell, president of the Jackson Chamber of Commerce; greetings from Gov. Murphree; response to welcome, Miss Florence Parker, Faculty Club, M. S. C. W.; awards of the following honors: Banner club, president's cup, Junior club cup, public welfare cup, art prizes, literary prizes, music prizes; luncheon given by the State Board of Development, honoring state officers and district presidents, at which Mrs. Ellen S. Woodard, director of the Woman's Division of the Board, will preside; reception at the governor's mansion; luncheon by the American Business club, honoring the pioneer members of the federation; visit to the Better Homes demonstration; address, "A System of State Parks for Mississippi," by H. L. Hogue, state forester; pageant by Junior clubs. The election of officers will be held on Thursday, April 21, the polls opening at 8:30 and closing at 4 o'clock.

State Library Commission Seriously Handicapped.

Another law that needs to be supplemented is that creating the State Library Commission, which, owing to the spirit of petty economy that now and then took possession of the last legislature was left without an appropriation. That the commission was created was due to the unceasing efforts of the State Library Association, which through a period of twenty years, has worked for the end partially accomplished at the last session. The county library law passed in 1920 was so framed as to apply to only eight counties of the state, Coahoma, Lauderdale, Leflore, Washington, Bolivar, Sunflower, Hinds and Warren. Of these only the first four have taken advantage of the authority given them to appropriate for county libraries. In 1924 the provisions of the law were extended to include Jones and Harrison counties, both of which have taken advantage of the provisions. The same legislature passed a law authorizing boards of supervisors of any county to appropriate as much as $300 in support of libraries already established in the county. Operating under this law, five counties only of the eighty-two in the state are giving aid to libraries—Madison, Pike, Quitman and Yazoo—a total of ten counties in the state awake to the importance of supplementing public school education with opportunities for reading.

POPULAR TRIO OF ARTISTS TO BE HEARD AT A. &amp; G.

Boyer and Broussard in Latest Song Hits—Miss Clavette, Cleve, Dames Interpreter, Make Initial Bow to Bay St. Louis Audiences Today.

Louie Boyer and Billy Broussard, New Orleans boys, whose singing over WSMB on the 8:30 o'clock de-luxa program Monday nights, have brought this station several thousand letters from enthusiastic "listeners-in" have been selected as headliners to open the A. & G. theater in Bay St. Louis Easter Eve, Saturday, April 16th. On the same program will be Rose Clavette, also a New Orleans, who will entertain with the "Black Bottom."

Boyer and Broussard, while they have confined their singing over WSMB to popular songs, are also proficient with the classics and semi-classics. Pupils of Prof. Victor Chesnais, they have a notable acquaintance with the leading operas and light operettas.

However, it was over WSMB that they first became well known as singers. Their voices attracted fans all over the United States, who wrote complimentary letters to Mr. Clyde B. Randall, the general manager and program director. Bay St. Louis, especially, counts a large number of Boyer and Broussard fans among its radio "listeners-in."

Both the boys are enthusiastic to be in Bay St. Louis for the opening. "We are practicing with the orchestra," says Randall, "the symphony and program director. Bay St. Louis people have our singing, and we will do our best to please everyone who attends the opening."

New Hotel Planned For Hattiesburg.

A cabination hotel and auditorium to cost between $600,000 and $750,000, which will occupy the former site of the old City Hall and waterworks plant, now facing the new municipal building and postoffice, is practically assured for Hattiesburg.

The city government, owning the proposed site, has agreed to sell it for such purpose at a reasonable figure, and at a meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce and of the latter body's hotel committee, $75,000 was pledged during one evening. The board is confident that an additional $125,000 can be raised there, and the remaining part of the indebtedness will be covered with a bond issue.

Free Demonstration at School.

There will be a demonstration of the Mississippi Power's electric stoves on next Friday afternoon, April 22nd, between the hours of 3 to 5 o'clock, to which the public is invited. The stove used by the demonstrator will be one of the Westinghouse Conquest range, an advertisement to this effect appearing in another column of this issue of The Echo. The public is invited to witness the demonstration, in the cafeteria department of the new Central school.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

With the close of Lenten season, after six weeks of penitential attitude and contemplation, and reducing one's self from all social indulgences, it is expected there will be many affairs here and there in local social dom.

The dance this evening by the Bay-Waveland Yacht club at the clubhouse formally opens the summer season, and it is intended by the club management to have these periodical dances as in the past. The Bay-Waveland Yacht club fills place in the local social life like nothing else. There are other clubs but none have such spacious building and adapted to entertainment, and it is noteworthy the club management is most generous with their property.

Bay St. Louis is "some" animated this Easter week, with the various sorority house parties from New Orleans. Bay St. Louis this year seems the Mecca of the many happy young students who have worked hard all winter and had a strenuous social season as sub-debs and the social side of college life. "It is simply killing to go to college as a student," said one sweet young thing just from school to the social writer, "for the reason one has so many things out of the schoolroom crowded into one's young life. In mother's and father's time it was entirely different; much easier, with no strenuous 'go all the time,' she concluded.

All bunches of the college set visiting Bay St. Louis are jolly, but none more so than those of the Kappa Gamma sorority, entertaining at a house party on the South Beach front, at Camp Onward, chaperoned by Miss Marietta Rosquet. Others in the party include Misses Florence Peterson, Agnes Marshall, Alice Peak, Sue M. Fox, Ida Bombard, Alice G. Root, Sue Joy, Anne Baird, Lucy Mae Rainold, Evelyn Thibault, Betsy Fox, Dorothy Thomas, Wilhelmina Schwartz, Frances Remick, Katharine Killbrow, Flora Stratton, Sarah Bullock, Doris Hill, Alice Rhodes, Lucille Scott, Lucille Townsend and several others.

There is a real live party of the school set of girls in Waveland, occupying the Fairchild house on the beach front, and chaperoned by Mrs. A. B. Freeman, Mrs. C. C. Hightower and Mrs. J. C. Hollingsworth. The personnel of the party includes Misses Edith Benedict, Olga H. Freeman, Margaret Carre, Betty Keenan, Shirley Hollingsworth, Claire Hightower, Marie Louise Schwartz, Esther Barrell, Grace Graham, Anna Jane Dohan, Mary Temper, Mary Mitchell and others.

Mrs. A. B. Freeman, Mrs. C. C. Hightower and Mrs. J. C. Hollingsworth will chaperone the young people.

Mrs. O. C. McDonald, grand president of Alpha Omicron Pi, has had prominent guests the last few days, interesting people representing different sections of this broad country of ours. Among the number, Mrs. Stella George Stern Perry, well-known novelist, who visited her former home, New Orleans, the several weeks preceding and later visited Pine Hills. The Grand Council, of which Mrs. Perry is grand historian, was in session for the purpose of making final arrangements for the sorority convention, which will be held at Seattle this coming summer. Other members visiting Mrs. McDonald were Mrs. Elizabeth Haywood Wyman, New Jersey, registrar of the fraternity; Mrs. J. C. Huntington, of Detroit, grand secretary; leaving Bay St. Louis, accompanied by Mrs. McDonald, the Grand Council was entertained at luncheon at New Orleans, by the Newcomb chapter of the sorority. Luncheon at Pine Hills was also a feature of local entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Grace and accomplished daughters have arrived from New Orleans and have a delightful house party at Grace Villa, on Waveland beach front, and will remain until after the Easter holidays. Mrs. Grace will entertain her Waveland and Bay St. Louis friends at an auction and bazaar next Monday. She will be assisted in receiving by her daughter, Virginia.

Of the different parties from New Orleans entertaining for Easter week in Bay St. Louis none is larger than that of the Chi Omega, chaperoned by Mrs. J. C. Bauman. The party includes the following: Misses Anita Nolan, Bertha Lewis, Bonner Richardson, Anita Prentiss, Dorothy and Claudia Baylor, Charlotte Yates, Ruth Taylor, Walford Cocker, Nancy Massay, Jane Metcalf, Elizabeth Snyder, Anne Metcalf, Claire Chalaron, Louise Hume, Mary Swift, Leggia Carre, Margaret Campbell, Mary Freeman, Gladys Fernandez, Lucille and Milby Bourne, Dorothy Chickahank, Virginia Wallace, Katharine Ogden, Adair Guion, Mary Norwood, Elizabeth Strickland, Gussie Fatten, Marie Louise Stevens, Thelma Davidson, Myrtle Gastrel, Charlie Allee, Harvey Sanchez, Marion Walker, Elizabeth Cecil, Willie and Anne Wright, Dorothy Chamberlain, Sidonie de la Houssaye, Fredreen Barnd, Lucille and Katharine Graves, Dorothy Wilby and many others.

A New Orleans society print has this to say, putting it very cleverly, that "there is nothing that spreads so far as a fad. And this season it is the fad to be off for the country for over Easter. It has involved the college set until all of the young people apparently will be on the move. Members of the Pi Beta Phi Sorority of Newcomb will go in a party to Bay St. Louis, where they will occupy one of the Fairchild cottages for over Easter and the several days before. The party will be chaperoned by Miss Thelma Davidson and will include Misses Myrtle Gastrel, Hopkins, Camille Bradley, Skiles, Hayward, Maribel Sanders, Yates, Chequelin, Betty Hume, Louise Caron, Anne Mitchell, Elizabeth Snyder, Anne Metcalf, Claire Chalaron, Louise Hume, Mary Swift, Leggia Carre, Margaret Campbell, Mary Freeman, Gladys Fernandez, Lucille and Milby Bourne, Dorothy Chickahank, Virginia Wallace, Katharine Ogden, Adair Guion, Mary Norwood, Elizabeth Strickland, Gussie Fatten, Marie Louise Stevens, Thelma Davidson, Myrtle Gastrel, Charlie Allee, Harvey Sanchez, Marion Walker, Elizabeth Cecil, Willie and Anne Wright, Dorothy Chamberlain, Sidonie de la Houssaye, Fredreen Barnd, Lucille and Katharine Graves, Dorothy Wilby and many others.

SUBSCRIPTION $2.00 PER YEAR—ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

BAY ST. LOUIS, MISS., SATURDAY, APRIL 16, 1927.

THIRTY-SIXTH YEAR, NO. 16

STORY OF ENTERPRISE OF A. & G. THEATER EXTENDS OVER 12-YEAR PERIOD

Hard Work and Constant and Intelligent Application By Ames and Gaspard Led to Building of Handsome and Spacious Theater of Today.

On Saturday, April 4, 1914, the doors of the first A. & G. Theater formally opened, exactly twelve years last Monday week, when the finishing touches were in process on the new $60,000.00 A. & G. fireproof theater diametrically across the street, at the intersection of Front and State streets.

Although not very long in the life of a city, Bay St. Louis was then a village of yesterday, contrasted to the fast-growing city of today. Then the completion and opening of this building today there is no better and more definite indication of the city's material growth and general advancement, and we, as citizens, naturally look upon the enterprise with a feeling of deep gratification.

Ames and Gaspard.

The originators of the theater were the Ames and Gaspard families, hence the "A. & G." and then composed of Mr. William Ames (now deceased) and two daughters, Miss Geraldine and Miss Lillian Ames, the latter recently married to Mr. Charles Zerr and residing at New Orleans; and their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gaspard, the former deceased. The Ames and Gaspard interests worked unremittingly and with intelligent application triumphed over many obstacles. Their faith in the enterprise was sublime and their courage and admiration. Reward was theirs in the ultimate end and when it did come it was well deserved.

First Movie Houses.

The first A. & G. Theater was preceded some years previously by two movie houses on land adjoining to the north, built and subsequently leased out by The Echo interests. The first was rather primitive, the structure resembling in shape of a railroad box car, 50 feet long by a width of some 30 feet, and operated by W. A. Sigerson, lessee, who was the nearest picture show man of Bay St. Louis. Other business precluding giving further time, he finally relinquished the enterprise.

Later, the building was converted into one very much fashioned on the order of the A. & G. building, just made vacant, and sometime after this remodeling the building, Mr. Sigerson sold his interest to Mrs. Octave Fayard, of Bay St. Louis, and family, who continued it for quite a while and with much prosperity as could be expected in those days, until November 1, 1913, at an early hour and from unknown cause the building and contents were completely destroyed by fire, a value conservatively estimated at the time of $27,000.00 which went up in smoke.

The owners decided not to build for the same purpose, fire cancelling the lease, and other building plans were adopted later.

First A. & G. Movie House.

It was in the spring of the following year, Messrs. Ames & Gaspard decided to engage in the business, then practically still in its infancy, and built a well-proportioned and substantially constructed movie house. It was a courageous move for Mrs. Gaspard and neices, Misses Ames, for it was they who were to solely conduct the business and control its destinies. The odds were numerous. How well these ladies succeeded as a result of their indefatigable efforts and application is best attested to by the fact the following summer they were able to add a building to the sold his interest to Mrs. Octave Fayard. Without walls and roof, it was called an "air dome," a term quite popular then during the summer season when open air shows were the order of the time.

Enterprise Meets With Success. It was not long, with increasing patronage and the natural growth of the city that neither the building proper (for winter season) nor the "air dome" (for summer) were of sufficient size. To meet the public demand was ever the policy of the A. & G. management, although it did not always pay best in dollars and cents, and accordingly, an unusual expense was incurred—both places were practically rebuilt and converted into one large theater building. This has served for six or seven years, but the time arrived where capacity houses have been the rule, particularly during the summer.

The building not only too small but inadequate in almost every instance, and built of frame, Mrs. Gaspard and Miss Ames, the remaining active members of the original firm, last year decided upon building a fireproof theater structure, ultra-modern, and a site was selected on the corner of Front and State streets, opposite The Echo newspaper building, and across the street from the original A. & G. Theater building, the site of the original Ames residence.

Sole Owners of Building.

Miss Geraldine Ames, manager, and Mrs. Philomena Gaspard are the sole owners of this enterprise. It stands not only as a tribute to the city's civic success, and a mark to the trend of its progressiveness, but will ever remain as a tribute to their business vision and monument to their enterprise, and in recognition of what they have done for the city of Bay St. Louis. In making this building, they stand as a contribution, and a definite mark to the city's progressiveness.

TO DANCE "BLACK BOTTOM" AND THE LATEST CHARLESTON

Miss Rose Claverie, Professional Dancer, Will Feature Vaudeville
Number Opening A. & G. Theater
—Chief Albert Jones Says It's O.K.

A clever number of the A. & G. Theater opening this afternoon and night will be performed by Miss Rose Claverie, professional stage dancer and teacher, who will dance the famous Black Bottom, as performed by Ann Pennington, in New York, the original, an droll also give other exhibition, including the new sensational Charleston.

Miss Claverie is unusually clever and her interpretations are noted for their high-class and artistic character. It has been said she lives in an art's atmosphere all during her work and breathes the very life of her art.

Having studied in New York City and in Cleveland, in addition to being a charming and artistic dancer, she has quite a large teaching class of pupils at her studio in New Orleans and will be glad to interview anyone interested.

Chief Albert Jones says the Black Bottom is O. K., and that he will be found in one of the front rows to-night, his time permitting.

H. F. MULLIKIN PLANS TO BUILD LOCAL INDUSTRY

Bay St. Louis Resident Interested in Establishing Industry That Would Mean Pay Roll For City—Would Manufacture Window Shades.

H. F. Mullikin, well-known resident and extensive realty owner of this section and member Chamber of Commerce, appeared before that body a few evenings since and explained his plans for the establishment of an industry that would mean a pay roll for the city and add to the stability of the industrial side of this section.

"We must give employment to our surplus labor," said Mr. Mullikin to The Echo, "and the more we can exercise this endeavor and give it wider scope the more substantial and prosperous will our people become."

Mr. Mullikin, before moving to Bay St. Louis from Florida last year, traveled for many years for one of the largest school furniture manufacturing concerns in the country, and, also, sold other kindred supplies. He says there are two or three concerns in the country that manufacture shades for school and public buildings, and these are located in Indiana—concerns that cannot keep up their output with the demand.

A specialty in the khaki folding shade. This comes in one weight and kind of material as well as one universal color. Green, preferred for the sight, fades and becomes unsightly, but khaki color remains fast and has become a standard. "It would require comparatively little money to start such a factory here, and during the beginning, or the first year, the monthly payroll would easily average $2,000 to $3,000 per month. The manufacture of window shades for public buildings would soon be followed by the manufacture of overalls, Asked about disposing the output, Mr. Mullikin said this would be the easiest concern as the output would be consumed by the wholesaler or middleman. In order to make sure of local co-operation and general protection, Mr. Mullikin said, while all the necessary capital was available, he would not enter the venture unless some sort of eight local residents would insure their interest and that of the community as a whole, of which concern he is a member.

H. GRADY PERKINS HAS MODERN OFFICE BUILDING ON FRONT

Energetic and Progressive Young Citizen Launches Into Business and Builds Modern Office Building
For Self on Beach Business St.

To build well is an achievement; to build modernly and to leave nothing undone is to win the commendation of others and to inspire confidence. Such is the attractive and modern office building of H. Grady Perkins, which recently was given its finishing touches and received its owner and occupant, engaged in writing insurance and specializing in real estate, co-operating in the latter with his brother, R. Terrell Perkins, located at New Orleans.

The stucco building, with its floral bedecked walk on each side of the main entrance, is located on what we are pleased to call the Beach Business Boulevard, one step from the head of Main street, and a few doors south of the A. & G. theater. While of Spanish type, it is a glimpse of California, and later of Florida architecture and sets as a gem of modern architecture and building. Mr. Perkins has his office modernly equipped with mahogany furniture and steel equipment, and a supply of unusually fine stationery from the printing department of The Sea Coast Echo.

Mr. Perkins has made a number of sales of unimproved realty and of improved as well and writes insurance for a number of standard companies, fire, tornado, automobile, etc. He is an excellent citizen, a coming business man, and identified with the best interest of the city.

Hancock county, as well as the city of Bay St. Louis, looks upon the building of the A. & G. theater as an acquisition to the material and moral upbuilding of the community. Its patronage will not only come from the confines of the city but from over the county as well.

BAY-WAVELAND YACHT CLUB OPENS SUMMER SEASON THIS EVEN'G

Spring and Summer Season to Be Ushered in at Popular Local Club
With "Easter Saturday" Dance—Will Entertain College Set.

An "Easter Saturday" dance will feature the opening of the Bay-Waveland Yacht club, of Bay St. Louis, this evening at the clubhouse, for the spring and gay summer season.

Social activities at the club have been dormant, but with the advent of the gay season, the club, too, buds with the beautiful things of spring and marks its formal opening for 1927 with an affair that promises to be largely attended.

In this connection it is noted the many students, members of house parties, both in Bay St. Louis and Waveland, representing different fraternities, will make the dance their favorite rendezvous for this evening and add to the color and spirit of the affair. Only members and guests recognized by members will be admitted, with a customary charge of 75 cents general admission.

Commodore John K. Edwards heads the club this year, and, along with the other officials it is needless to say he will keep the Bay-Waveland to its usual high standard of excellence and popularity; in fact, it is planned to broaden the club's activities and to make it the social Mecca for all who will gather frequently under its hospitable roof and inviting premises. The Bay-Waveland club is a recognized institution of the city and coast and fills an important niche in the affairs of our city and its prosperity.

The success of the A. & G. project inspires confidence and gives renewed courage. Every indication points to a new future, rich in hope and realization. Men are encouraged by the doing and success of others, and this instance is no exception.

AT THE A. & G. THEATER TODAY

MEN AND FIRMS WHO BUILT THE A. & G. THEATER

Local Labor and Artisan Built Handsome Structure—Many Had Parts in Different Lines of Endeavor—No Time Lost in Completing Bldg.

Ground was broken for the new A. & G. theater on November 2nd, and ever since the work of construction has ever progressed, probably not at record-breaking speed, for this was not necessary, but well, and will muster the strictest censor and most critical eye.

Wm. T. Nolan, architect at New Orleans, designed the building and is author of plans and specifications, and his architects' supervisory capacity fitted every demand and met every exactitude expected of him.

John T. McDonald and Sons, of Pass Christian, were awarded the contract for building and in this instance, like in the premises of all other contracts, met the scrutiny of the supervising architect and every provision of rigid specification.

An electrical equipment was supplied by the Electrical Supply Co., of New Orleans, one of the best known and reputable firms dealing in such supplies.

Brick furnished by the Laurel Brick Company, sand, gravel by the Weston Sand and Gravel Company, of Westonia and Logtown, of Hancock county.

Although a fire-proof building in the general sense there was considerable lumber used in its construction. This was supplied by the Norton-Haas Lumber Company.

C. C. McDonald, local wholesaler, supplied all the cement and kindred supplies, besides the brick needed for the building. He supplied the material in order for supplies exceeding this one. Mr. McDonald supplied the material promptly, and precluded any possible delay.

Electrical work by Archie Surcouf, who executed similar service for the Central school building. Surcouf's work passed all consorship and meets the requirements of the state fire prevention bureau.

All stucco work on the exterior and plastering within, excellent and delicate work, was performed by Jack Schilling, of Bay St. Louis.

Staining and painting by Martial Burth, who finished his work in record time, and, giving his job his personal attention, which stamps it above reproach.

A contract of no small magnitude was the plumbing. This was in the capable hands of Alonzo B. Hayden, Inc., of Pass Christian. This firm, headed by young Mr. Hayden, did the best of work.

Frames, doors and all other mill work was supplied by F. C. Turner, of Mobile, Ala., one of the oldest and best known factories of its kind in the South. Better and more dependable products for less money are qualities that have ever redounded to the success of F. C. Turner & Co.

Ferdinand Ramond, of Bay St. Louis, was general foreman for all work of general character and more recently succeeded by Edw. Osbourne, of Bay St. Louis, who acted as foreman over the finishing detail work in all pertaining to carpentry.

Mr. Osbourne, a well-known local contractor and builder.

F. P. Mendow, specializing in such work, had the contract for placing the one thousand chairs, in which line of work he is recognized over the South as an expert.

It is noted, wherever possible, Contractor McDonald employed all home labor he could secure. He knew this is the policy of the A. & G. management, and his own as well, he carried out this intent as far as practicable and possible.

Competent Operator For A. & G.

The services of Richard Boudreaux, competent operator, will have general charge of the operating room in the new theater opening today. This insures the same excellent service which patrons have heretofore employed. No breaking of films, no minor accidents which so frequently mar the pleasure of audiences which occur in some of the movie houses.

Mr. Boudreaux is an electrician, versed and competent; a master of every situation that might arise. He long ago served his apprenticeship and is well qualified to the responsible position of trust to which he has been appointed.

The A. & G. has a fine double battery of projecting machines, and the equipment will be in competent hands will be received with satisfaction.

He is a resident of Bay St. Louis and no stranger. Employing home services is in line with the general policy of the A. & G.

A. & G. THEATER DECLARED "THING OF BEAUTY AND JOY FOREVER" BY PUBLIC

Description of Building Formally Dedicated Today—Spacious and Has Every Ultra-Modern Appointment and Equipment Possible.

Bay St. Louis New Theater should prove the last word in theater design and should provide to our local people a place of amusement equal in its appointments to any theaters of its size in this section.

Its design is of Spanish Mission architecture, utilizing press bricks, stucco and other permanent materials to withstand the ravages of time. The principal entrance to the theater is on Front street, where is located a ticket office for the use of its patrons. Its white patrons will enter through the main entrance to both the main floor and a portion of the gallery. The colored entrance around the corner in State street and one half the gallery will be allotted to the colored patrons.

The seating capacity is over 1,000 and the best furniture is installed for the comfort of those patronizing this place of amusement. The main floor is scientifically designed as is likewise the gallery, so that each person wherever he sits will be privileged to view the performance without obstruction or interruption of any kind, and there are no columns within the auditorium at any place. Over the main front entrance are provided a marquee of copper brilliantly lighted by electricity and protecting its patrons against inclement weather conditions, at all times permitting them to drive up in their automobiles beneath its bounteous shade. Separate ticket offices are provided for the sale of tickets to the white and colored patrons.

The building has a frontage of 42 feet on the main street, with a depth of 126 feet on the side street. The interior is finished in ornamental plaster with plastered walls and beam ceilings in barrel design. It is lighted throughout with electricity in steel conduits, making it impossible for a fire to occur. It is cooled by two arctic new air machines, driven by electric motors, thus providing comfort to the patrons even in the hottest seasons.

The ventilation has been given careful thought and the interior air shall be as clean and wholesome as the ozone of the outside at all times. Nor is the comfort of the patrons to be overlooked. The floors are of cold for the entire place will be heated by a most improved system of hot water radiation with a boiler installed in a fire-proof enclosure.

On the gallery is an Underwriter's approved projection booth with all safeguards thrown around its construction to relieve any hazard to the building.

Special attention has been given to numerous exits installed at the different points in the building to enable a full house to exit without any hazard in several minutes, if at any time required. The floors are of concrete, making it possible at all times to keep the building in a thoroughly sanitary condition.

The stage is of generous proportions, with a width, between arch supports, of 23 feet, and a height of 20 feet. The picture frame is of the latest improved type, assuring perfect pictures at all times. Electric fixtures of neat design will provide the lighting.

ST. CHARLES SUB- DIVISION NAME TO BE CHANGED

In Future Will Be Known as Bay St.
Louis Subdivision—Future Promising—Two Modern Stucco Dwellings to Be Built at Once.

St. Charles Subdivision, one of the attractive and most desirable places to build a home in the city limits and located conveniently from every viewpoint, and located at the intersection of St. Charles street and Dunbar avenue, will be known as Bay St. Louis Subdivision, so stated Evan J. McCall while in Bay St. Louis a few days since, just returned from an extensive business trip in the interest of the business, representing Tudor B. Carré, Inc.

"The name St. Charles is misleading," said Mr. McCall, "some people living away are impressed with the name, they think it has something to do with St. Charles avenue, New Orleans, known the country over, while others conflict it with St. Charles parish, La., and other well-known places and enterprises bearing that name."

"In order to avoid conflict," continued Mr. McCall, "our firm has decided to call it Bay St. Louis Subdivision. In this wise the name is significant and means something relatively to location."

At present material is on the ground and work has started on the building of the first bungalow, with attic room, Spanish Mission style, Julius Favre, contractor and builder, and when this one is finished work will immediately begin on a second, but a little less pretentious. These houses will be the model of exterior attractiveness and within there will be every modern equipment and appointment.

It is planned to sell these with the lots which they occupy. A buyer generally wishes his home already built, thus saving him money and worry. The plan is practical and attractive, and last, but not least, of all, more advertising for the magic name to all home-lovers. "Bay St. Louis Subdivision."

NEW THEATER WILL HAVE COMPETENT, REGULAR ORGANIST

Mrs. Blau, to Be Organist of A. & G.—Talented Musician Will Master Organ—Interpretative Music Make Screen Versions Effective.

Mrs. R. Blau will be organist of the new A. & G. theater, and to her will fall the distinction of opening the new playhouse, with interpretative music for the various screen versions.

Mrs. Blau is not only a musician with unusual talent and ability, but her experience of several years in playing the organ for a number of some of the larger and more prominent movie houses in the Southwest serves her in good stead.

Proper music, fitting to different scenes from Pianissimo, Crescendo to Fortissimo, is an adjunct in properly presenting the film scenes onto the screen adds to realism and gives that indescribable something of the psychology that just cannot be explained.

Mrs. Blau is a resident of Bay St. Louis and it is fortunate her services are available. As an added attraction to the comfort of the new A. & G. theater and supplementing the program of entertainment is well worthy of note.

WM. T. NOLAN IS ARCHITECT OF THE A. & G. THEATER

Well-Known Orleansian and Friend of the Mississippi Gulf Coast
Designer of Handsome Movie House—
Architect of Other Buildings.

To the architect of the new A. & G. Theater, the palm leaf!

Wm. T. Nolan, well-known and prominent architect of New Orleans, and friend of the Mississippi Gulf Coast, designed the new theater and how well he succeeded is best attested to the fact the house and its every appointment are all that could be desired.

Of Spanish Mission type, the motif has been consistently carried out on the exterior. Nothing could be more enduring and built along lines depicting romance and color of Old Spain. The little balcony, with its balustrade of iron, a touch of tile-covered roof slightly projecting over head, and the natural colors of stucco and tile reds and yellows are indeed most harmonious and leave no room for not even one jarring note.

A description of the building, given elsewhere in this special A. & G. edition of The Star-Gazette, there is no intention to describe here, sufficient to say, however, the building well qualifies to every demand of symmetry, proportion and exactitude of the technical side. On the interior, too, there is an atmosphere of harmony, and in all the new theater building is another addition to the long list of Mr. Nolan's professional triumphs, not only in Bay St. Louis, along the Gulf Coast and in New Orleans, but pretty well over every section of both Louisiana and Mississippi.

In Bay St. Louis we find W. T. Nolan the architect of the magnificent Central High School building, nearing the final stage of completion, and costing $80,000.00; the Hancock county courthouse, Weston hotel and other minor buildings.

Mr. Nolan is a general architect, specializing in public buildings, with office in the Canal Bank Bldg., at New Orleans. The A. & G. Theater and Bay High School buildings now in simultaneous process of completion are among his best local advertisements.

Women's Club at Sellers.

The Woman's Club of Sellers met for their regular monthly meeting April 6, at the home of Mrs. J. B. Smith, with all members present excepting two.

Club was called to order by the president and regular routine of business transacted.

Picnic luncheon was discussed by Mrs. J. B. Smith, and Mrs. J. B. Shaw. Discussion on table etiquette by Miss O'Don. Also demonstration in painting with dyes.

Delicious cake and coffee was served by the hostess.

HANCOCK COUNTY HAS MANY IMPROVEMENTS; ATTRACT OUTSIDERS

Gordon Huff, Times-Picayune Correspondent, Makes General Survey of Major and Outstanding Improvements For This Section of Coast.

Hancock county is making preparation to construct a six-mile unit of a proposed $1,250,000 concrete and steel seawall, and as soon as a slight legal technicality is cleared up, it is expected that work will be started by Moore & Yoeman, Houston, Tex., contractors, who already have been awarded the contract. The six-mile unit will cost $800,000, starting at the western end of the seawall constructed by the City of Bay St. Louis in 1923-24 and continuing west to Lake Shore, protecting the waterfronts of Waveland and Clermont Harbor and intervening territory.

Funds for the protection were derived through a bond issue voted by citizens of Hancock county last fall, and the project, in a strict sense of the word, will not be of any cost to taxpayers of Hancock county. Special legislation, passed by the state legislature at the instance of Robert L. Genin, representative from Hancock county, permits a gasoline tax, the proceeds to be used in retiring the $1,250,000 bonds. Completion of the entire project will give Hancock county ten miles of waterfront protection, which includes four miles constructed by the City of Bay St. Louis, the wall to extend from Jordan river on the east to Lake Shore. A part of the $1,250,000 fund will be used in reinforcing the old wall, giving the Coast line protection in all needed sections.

Construction of the seawall is under direct supervision of a road protection commission and James W. Billingsley, New Orleans engineer. The commission is composed of R. C. Engman, chairman; J. W. Vairin, Randolph J. Ladner, Harry Hall, Jr., and August Rohr.

It is expected that Hancock county will experience a great development during the next few years, with inducements offered by the seawall, the bridge across Bay of St. Louis, which now is under construction, and a network of hard-surfaced highways which connects East Bay St. Louis with the Louisiana highway to New Orleans.

In spite of the fact that Hancock county has in a sense been separated from the remainder of the Coast by Bay of St. Louis, connected only by ferry service, this district has gone steadily ahead in development and value of property has increased. Completion of the bridge, which is being constructed jointly by Hancock and Harrison counties, will connect this territory with the remainder of the Coast by a paved boulevard along the waterfront. Hancock county citizens also are vitally interested in construction of free bridges across Chef Menteur and the Rigolets, which will give New Orleans citizens better access to this district, which appeals strongly to those in the city who prefer homes in the country.

Although those interested in development of this district are firm in their belief that a great development is ahead, they are not blind to the fact that the district is still in the hands of the future.

Sub Hits Bridge.

Vallejo, Calif.—One of the Navy's largest submarines, S-17, was seriously damaged when it crashed into the causeway supporting the Mare Island draw bridge. Damage to the causeway was estimated at from $5,000 to $10,000. All members of the crew escaped injury, it is believed.

Royalty Gets Millions.

Belgrade.—The confiscated property of the ex-reigning dynasty of Montenegro, Petrovich-Njegus, estimated to be worth about $4,000,000, will be returned to its owners.

LOUIE BOYER, NEW ORLEANS RADIO ARTIST.

There is no singer of topical and other songs over WSMR more popular than the subject of this sketch. In addition to singing over the ether he has appeared on the stage time and again, and his services have been secured for this afternoon and this evening at the opening of the A. & G. Theater. Louie is one of the cleverest of singers and his number on the program will be found one that brings repeated applause.

ly on beach front property, go sky high in two or three jumps. It is preferred that the steady growth now in progress be maintained.

"I know of no beach frontage which can be bought for less than $100 per front foot," one realtor said. "This, of course, is much higher than it was a year ago and many times higher than three or four years ago. Prices are going higher steadily and will continue to go higher, but if we can help it—and I think we can—prices of property in Hancock county never will be excessive, but the true value of the property will be asked."

That this district of the South has enjoyed a progress, unthought of a few years ago is illustrated in the manner in which a proposal to bridge the Bay of St. Louis was received by members of the state legislature in 1918.

"As late as 1918 they called me a nut on the floor of the house when I asked for legislation permitting Hancock and Harrison counties to build a bridge across the bay," Robert L. Genin, Bay St. Louis attorney, said. "They told me that such a thing was foolish and that it never would be done. Maybe it sounded foolish and maybe I was a nut, but they are at work now on a bridge across the bay which will be completed this summer."

Mrs. Corra Harris, noted Georgia writer, has received from Rollins College the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters.

COMMENT ON SPORTS

Well, the big leagues are under way and the fans will soon be able to pass up a lot of the spring dope that drifted into their systems while they were reading the enthusiastic reports from the training camps.

It might be well to reflect back a few months and refresh our memories as to how they finished last fall. In the National League the first division clubs were the Cardinals, Reds, Pirates and Cubs. In the junior circuit it was the Yankees, Indians, Athletics and Senators. The two new clubs that are expected to make a run for the top-four are the Giants, in the National, and the Tigers, in the American.

The other six clubs are said to be running for experience, but you never can tell. Personally, we expect the Browns and the Robins to make better showings than have been predicted, but our guess is no better than yours.

In Cuba they take chess seriously, as you will agree when you read the following account of the reception that greeted Capablanca upon his return from America, where he won the tournament recently concluded: "Havana—Jose R. Capablanca, returning home today after winning the Chess Masters' tournament in New York, received a rousing reception this afternoon."

"Traffic was blocked for an hour while several thousand persons, who greeted the world's champion cheered, set off aerial bombs, and played music."

"Capablanca, who is an all-around athlete, found baseball men, fencers and other athletes on the official Reception Committee. At one time he wanted to be a baseball pitcher, and he also is recognized as a good fencer."

Berlin Protects Police.

Berlin.—Protection for Berlin detectives now will be vests of extraordinarily closely woven cloth, which not only flatters and throws off bullets fired at close range, but which is also proof against knives or daggers. The outstanding advantage of the new attire is its light weight, an entire suit weighing only six or seven pounds.

Oldest Tomb.

Cairo, Egypt.—What may be proved to be the oldest tomb yet to be discovered in Egypt was recently discovered in the Giza district, connected with the ancient city of Memphis. It is believed to be the tomb of a Pharaoh of the 18th dynasty, and is said to be the most magnificent of the ancient tombs.

in this country. When Mexican bandits killed an American last week there was no demand in Congress for immediate war. Beg pardon, we forgot, Congress is at home.DE PINEDO'S MISFORTUNE.The destruction of the plane of Commander de Pinedo brings to end a remarkable aerial undertaking which, although uncompleted, stands high in the annals of the air.When the Italian left Cardinia in February to fly to Africa, he began an ambitious voyage, that planned to encompass four continents and to cross the Atlantic ocean twice. His trip from Africa to Brazil, then to Argentina, northward across the jungle to Columbia, to New Orleans, to San Antonio and finally to Roosevelt Dam, Ariz., where his plane burned while being put under way for the flight to San Diego, attracted worldwide attention.This Italian is a flyer, ranking with Sir Alan Cob-ham, Great Britain's knight of the air. That his brave effort should end through accident is regrettable, but the next time you hear of De Pinedo he will be winging his way on some far flung schedule. And, we will be wishing him "good luck."ACTORS CONVICTED.The average citizen of Bay St. Louis had about reached the conclusion that the great city of New York was above censorship, that it was the citadel of freedom, with liberty to all to do as they please.This is wrong. Recently seven women and fifteen men were convicted of obscenity in London and sentenced to terms of years in prison. The fact that they were convicted of obscenity is a proof that the city of New York is not above censorship.EPOCHAL IN THE HISTORY OF BAY ST. LOUIS.In dedicating this edition and double number of The Sea Coast Echo, city and county newspaper, to the new A. & G. theater building, which formal opening to the public this afternoon is an event of more than ordinary interest, we do so with no small degree of pride and satisfaction.Cities of the size of Bay St. Louis do not have such permanent and pretentious-looking theater building of this masterful type and proportion; neither do people invest their thousands into such enterprise unless they are secure in their vision of the immediate future of their locality and unless they have the confidence of the city and good will of its people. It takes courage and vision to leap from a wooden and originally pavilion-like structure to a regularly-constructed theater building like the former and present A. & G. buildings; from a structure seating hardly four hundred people to one comfortably seating one thousand. It takes more than ordinary ability and application to one's business to make such a success as attained in contrast to the original enterprise. This is only accomplished by dint of constant labor and the husbanding of every economic interest, shirking no duty and heeding to every call, tiring of nothing and willing to carry on.If there is cause for congratulation and occasion for bouquets, surely heartiest felicitations and well-wishing concern are due Mrs. Philomene Gaspard and Miss Geraldine Ames, and their assistants. They have labored in and out of season, unflinchingly and unflag-gingly and whatever reward or glory that comes to them today in the realization of a vision that only recently could have been construed as a vague dream, they are in fullest measure entitled to.Bay St. Louis and surrounding sections owe these ladies recognition for their accomplishment; a full mead of praise and, with their permission, we wish to cite their efforts as an example worthy of emulation; to the ambitious and to those who, by their own individual effort, wish to attain success, we know of no better instance.May the management of the new A. & G. theater receive the fullest share of recognition and prosperity it so fully merits. We, in common with other citizens, appreciate and realize the significance of this new enterprise and the different phases it manifests for the better side of our town.Truly, this is an epoch in the history of Bay St.
Louis.ELOQUENT FACTS AND FIGURES.Over five thousand copies of this double edition of The Sea Coast Echo will have been printed and many extra copies will fall in the hands of people and other friends of this section living away. We wish we could devote space to all of the major improvements that are either accomplished, in the making or programmed for the immediate future. It seemingly questions the senses of imagination and of realization. One cannot gauge with proper conception or comprehension fully the metamorphosis our community has emerged from through a period of only comparative short time. Projects have been accomplished that were life-dreams and well-nigh deemed impossible; for instance, the concrete seawall, protecting the city from one end to the other with a band of impregnable adamant. It is with no small degree of satisfaction we note Bay St. Louis was the first of the "seven cities" to build a seawall and thus blaze the way for others, showing how to do and that it could be done.Then came our waterworks system, costing nearly

Present and Future of The Mississippi Coast

And being thoroughly convinced of the ultimate development of this section, we wish to extend congratulations to the owners and operators of the New A. & G. Theater. It is our desire to commend them most sincerely on their progress and initiative.

The whole Gulf Coast should be proud of the structure reared in our midst by these progressive people, and we believe it is but the beginning of other worthy projects that tend toward the upbuilding of the Coast.

As the completion of this building comes about it is our desire to be named among those who extend congratulations. Our good will and best wishes are most sincere.

We commend their achievement as worthy of emulation by others who have the interest of the Coast at heart.

LARGE SUMS OF MONEY WILL BE SPENT ON OIL DURING YEAR IN STATE

Amory Field Holds Center of Stage, While Other Strata in Mississippi Will Be Explored—Some Wells Now Approaching Depth of 2,000 Feet.

Imbued by an earnest belief that there is oil or gas somewhere beneath the soil of Mississippi, several million dollars will be expended this year in well drilling.

Not less than forty wells are to be drilled within the year, of which 22 are now actually under way, and the remainder will be started as soon as drilling outfits can be procured. Forty wells at an average cost of $40,000 each means an expenditure of $1,600,000, while amounts being invested in leases and exploitation may amount to ten times that figure.

The Amory field continues to be the center of interest, especially since the majors and independent companies commenced acquiring acreage in that territory. Of the eight wells now being drilled near Amory, four are approaching a depth of 2,000 feet. Drilling is a rather expensive proposition in that field, due to quicksand and heavy rock strata. The Amory gas well, brought in several months ago, continues to furnish a flow of about 6,000,000 feet daily.

Colleen Defends Much Maligned Telephone Girl

The most fascinating role she has played on the screen is depicted by Colleen Moore in "Orchids and Ermine," showing this Saturday afternoon and night at the Bay St. Louis A. & G. theater.

A little telephone switchboard operator in the lobby of a huge New York hotel is the heroine of this humorous and romantic story. "She must have the disposition of a saint, she must have unlimited self-control, in fact, she must be a very unusual and very unusual person."

M'CORMICK PICKS HIS CAST OF COMEDY WITH UNUSUAL CARE

Every Player in "Orchids and Ermine" Chosen With Particular Part in Mind—Colleen Moore Is Starred.

The same care that a diamond expert uses in selecting stones for a queen's necklace was employed in assembling the players for the supporting cast of Colleen Moore's newest picture, "Orchids and Ermine," the newest feature picture opening over at the New A. & G. Theater this Saturday afternoon and evening.

Every player in this humorous romantic story of the adventures of a little telephone switchboard operator in a huge New York hotel was selected by John McCormick, who, in addition to being producer of Miss Moore's pictures, is general manager of most coast production for First National.

Mulhall Featured. Jack Mulhall, one of the screen's most popular leading men, was assigned to the role of the modest young millionaire who falls in love with the little operator.

Sam Hardy appears as Mulhall's valet who impersonates his employer and gets into all sorts of comical difficulties among them an affair with Colleen's chum in the picture, Gwen Lee, shown as a "dizzy blonde."

Pretty Girls. Alma Bennett, the most alluring girl as a vamp; Hedda Hopper, one of the screen's most beautiful women; Kate Price, famous "heavyweight" comedienne; Ted Prouty, veteran of a thousand comedy roles; Emily Fitzroy, the characteristic character role player; and the character role player, noted New York night club entertainer, Mela d'Avila, the most graceful girl, Brooks Benedict in a chauffeur's role, and others complete the cast.

"Orchids and Ermine," the exterior scenes of which were shot at New York's famous Waldorf-Astoria hotel, her comedy team, the "Three New Yorks" from Gary, New York, a musical story. It was directed by Al Santell.

KNOW YOUR CITY AND COUNTY WELL WORTH WHILE

Local Citizens Should Know All About Bay St. Louis and Hancock County—Be Able to Tell Strangers—Satisfaction For Self.

Wonder how many of the residents of this city and community are sufficiently posted on local affairs and history to give a stranger visiting here definite information regarding Bay St. Louis.

Every few days there is someone who desires certain information. It may be that the one seeking the information has an idea of making Bay St. Louis his home. In this event every citizen of the town should be in position to give him general information at least. If he is not in position to give details, he should at least be sufficiently informed to direct the party to the proper person here who can furnish the information desired.

Most of us have a pretty general store of information about other cities, states, and other countries, but when it comes to home facts, it seems as though the most of us have the idea that these things are unimportant. On the contrary they are very important, and it would not be a bad idea for the schools to take a little time each week and drill the pupils in general information about what is going on right under their noses.

For instance, here are a few questions which every one might ask himself and see how well he is informed about his home town:

How old is your city?
Early history of Bay St. Louis.
Something about the Indians and early settlers.

Amount of outstanding bonds, both city and county.
How many miles of streets are in the city?

How much paving in the city?
How much water works, electric lights and sewerage?
Who has charge of these different departments of the city?

When do municipal elections take place?
What roads do you take to go the different large cities in this state?

What are the conditions of the roads?
What is the population of your town?

What prominent men live here who have taken an active part in state affairs and politics?
What part has your town played in the politics of your state?

Have any state officials ever been elected from this section?
When was your town settled? By whom?

What do you know about the history of your town?
What are the principal crops or manufactures of this section?
What is the value of these various crops per year and also the manufactures?

Who are the various state officials?

These are just a few of hundreds of questions which could be asked any citizen here, and he should be able to give at least a general answer to some and definite information regarding others.

Know your home town, folks. Know your county. Know your state. Know your nation. Then get information about folks who live in other countries.

Epilaphs.

A gentleman who preferred a blonde lies here within a coffin—
Nobody minded the preference
But he voiced it once too often.

A Dutch astronomer has announced the discovery of 180 new stars. Thousands of pedestrians have written the scientist that he ain't seen nothing yet.

According to Professor Baor, of Yale University, baseball was played in Athens 1,300 years ago. We understand that Judge Landis has offered the Professor traveling expenses if he can find any evidence of sloughing.

Art Is Long.

"Art is long and time is fleeting"
As I sit in Mary's flat.
Reading from this book I wonder
What the poet meant by that.

Has it some symbolic meaning?
Why is Art so long at last?
Have I not the wit to guess it?
Why should time go by so fast?

The hours pass as I sit waiting;
Perhaps its meaning I shall get.
For Mary's primping for the party
And she hasn't shown up yet.

Krazy Kracks.

"Give a sentence with the word 'Assume.'"
That ain't no seben Niggah astine.

A New York radio station is broadcasting a weekly talk on chloquine gas as a treatment for colds. Other stations merely broadcast the gas.

Utopia.

When sham from creation was banished
When everything meant what it said,
When him-fam and falsehood both vanished
And glorified truth reigned in—

A man turned a faucet marked "hot"
And streaming hot water he got!

COLLEEN TO SHOW FASHIONS OF 1927 TODAY AT A. & G.

"Orchids and Ermine" Exhibits Newest Models in Women's Hats and Gowns.—Production of Fashions Part of Production.

Fashions of the year just opening are a feature of Colleen Moore's newest picture, "Orchids and Ermine," opening the new A. & G. theater, Bay St. Louis, this Saturday afternoon and evening.

Scores of innovations in gowns, wraps and slippers are a part of the story. Director Alfred Santell took particular care during the filming of the picture, however, not to force the fashions on his audience as a show, but to make them a natural part of the production.

"Instead of having just any women wear our gorgeous clothes as minor players, we engaged women who could wear clothes well, and had them outfitted with fashions that will be in vogue a year from now," said Santell.

Colleen Moore wears several stunning outfits in "Orchids and Ermine," most of which were designed and made while she was in New York for the filming of the exterior scenes of the story.

Squandering Oil Wealth.
400 Per Cent. More Baby Shoes.
Useless Record Breaking.
Will She Die?
BY ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1927)

Mr. Teagle, president of New Jersey Standard Oil, warns oil men that they are cutting their own throats. This country is treating the nation's oil wealth as unintelligently as frontiersmen treated the herds of bison. The bison soon vanished.

Oil is actually being sold for less than it costs to produce, cheerful for buyers, but it will not last. Millions are spent developing new wells to increase competition while oil companies are carrying 530,000,000 barrels of oil stored above ground at an annual cost, loss and waste, of $130,000,000.

The country's national oil wealth is not merely private wealth. It is a great national asset and a way should be found to give oil production some national control and stop waste.

You are told many things about prohibition, for and against. R. H. Davidson, writing from Coronado Beach, California, asks, "Do you chance to know that the sale of children's shoes has increased 400 per cent. per annum since prohibition came?"

Everybody will agree that 400 per cent. more shoes for children, combined with larger savings bank deposits, is a strong argument for prohibition, assuming those things to be results of prohibition.

Those that would modify the Volstead Act say the average man is earning about twice what he earned before the war, and increased earnings, not the absence of beer, explain greater savings and more children's shoes.

A coal strike of a sort was started last week in what is called "the central competitive field." Union men in the North do not compete with non-union men farther South.

The alleged attempt to reduce wages in the North would cause still further reduction of wages in the South. Industry and business are not civilized while it is necessary for employees to engage in periodical battles, at the expense of the workers' wives and children, to decide what is fair pay. Some impartial third party should fix wages. The public pays in the price of coal.

Segrave, British beat the world's automobile record last week, flying over the sands of Daytona Beach in Florida at a speed greater than 166 miles an hour. His racing car, the "Mystery S," looking like a submarine on land, broke the American record by ten miles an hour. It's an achievement interesting, but not useful. No automobile can go usefully 166 miles an hour, or 100 miles an hour.

Up in the air, where the road is wide, is the place for real speed.

At Lyons, in Georgia, men on trial for kidnapping and fleeing the Rev. E. J. Jones, Jr., wore hoods. One had a pistol, another waved a sword. They told Mr. Jones they did not approve his moral conduct, drove him off in a car, held him down, beat him with a leather strap.

The clergyman testifies "After I was set free I started off down the road singing 'How Beautiful Heaven Must Be.'" During the beating he had prayed aloud. Such fortitude is most unusual.

Now New York may have to decide about executing Mrs. Ruth Snyder, young, blond, curly-haired widow, aged 32, who recently confessed she helped another man murder her husband.

She says she now loathes the man that did the killing. He had to have borrowed a suggestion from his original ancestor, Adam. Friends say he was hypnotized by the woman whose husband he killed.

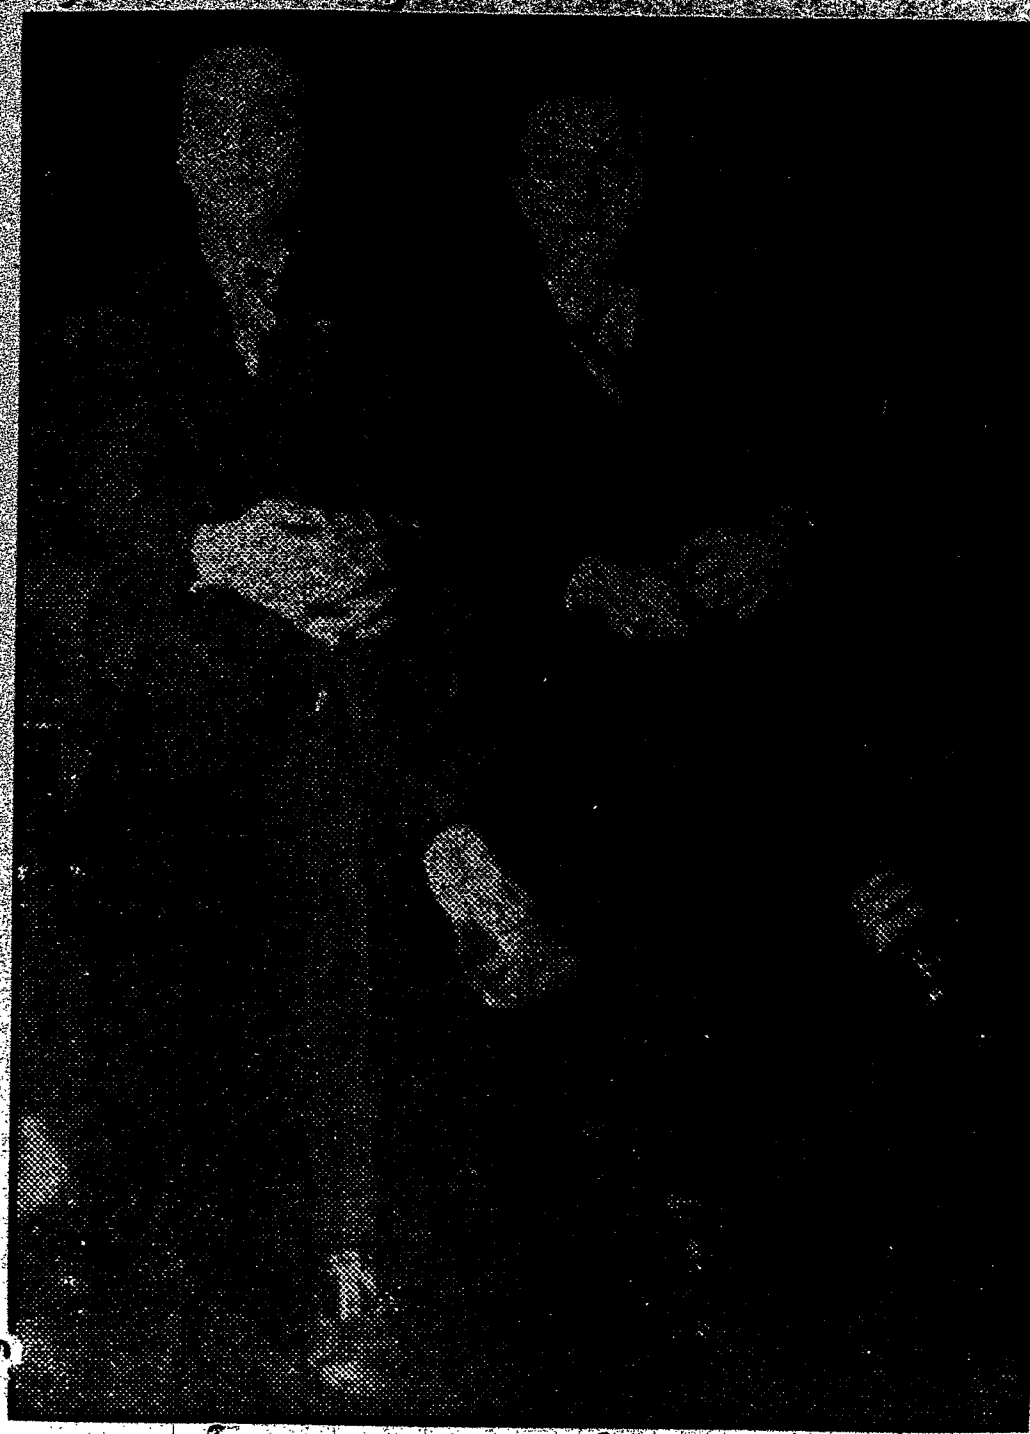

If human nature, public opinion and the course of events work as usual, the man will be executed and the woman sentenced to life imprisonment. There seems to be a psychological objection to strapping women in the electric chair.

We do not need war with China, and it would not be a righteous war, once we have rescued our nationals. Having told Asiatics that they may not live here, it would be playing the hypocrite and bully to object to China's decision that she does not want us, or Europeans, on her soil. If we may exclude Asiatics justly, China may, with equal justice, exclude us.

Worthy Pardon

Frank Martin, of Frankfort, Ky., who was recently imprisoned for the murder of a woman, is now being pardoned by the governor of Kentucky. He was a well-known figure in the community and his pardon has caused much discussion.

THE TWO B'S—LOUIE BOYER AND BILLY BROUSSARD.

Here is a team to conjure with—the two Bs. Louie Boyer and Billy Broussard, imitatively clever, a show by themselves. These vaudeville artists can entertain alone one solid afternoon or evening. The A. & G. management has secured their services for this afternoon and evening on the occasion of the formal opening of their theater. The boys are inseparable, they sing and dance; in fact, their versatility entitles to take any part in their line on the stage.

DAINTY COLLEEN MOORE. AMERICAN GIRL. OPENING FEATURE A. & G. THEATER

Bay St. Louis' New Sixty Thousand Dollar Playhouse Presents Artist Today in "Orchids and Ermine."
Showing Afternoon and Evening.

Romance with as much comedy as dramatic heart-throbs, the kind of romance that is a part of the lives of millions of girls and youths all over the world—that is the romance that Colleen Moore typifies in her pictures. It is her own individual contribution to the screen.

"The romance that involves Colleen Moore in each of her pictures might happen to any girl. It strikes right into our daily lives. It is intriguing and still within reach; it is wholesome and at the same time fascinating."

This is the summing up offered by John McCormick, whose keen knowledge of people's notions and emotions has given him a high place among the screen's most successful producers. As the producer of "Sally," "Irene," "El-la Cinders," and many other film successes, he has been recognized as a skilled student of the public likes.

Everyone Loves Her.

"Every star must fill some particular niche in the hearts of people to gain lasting fame," says McCormick. "Miss Moore represents the girl we all know and love!"

"She is not the remote figure that glides across the screen in so many pictures. She is a live, warm-blooded, loyal little creature, joyous and earnest, modern to the last degree and always lovable. She is the girl who comes and goes in our lives every week. We see in Miss Moore our sisters, the girl across the street, the boss' secretary, the young lady who manages the newsstand."

"The romance in 'Orchids and Ermine' is typical. At the beginning of the picture she is shown as a little telephone switchboard operator. We all see or converse with telephone operators a dozen times or more a day. She leaves her job in a cement factory for one in the lobby of one of New York's palace-like hotels."

"She dreams some day meeting a handsome and wealthy man who will shower her with the luxuries of life—but in back of it all, we know that she is the kind of girl who will marry for love, no matter whether it brings wealth or poverty. Every girl has the same dreams and every man, like the hero in the story, would like to be wealthy and to meet and win the one and only girl who loves him for himself alone."

Great Comedy.

"In this picture, as in all of Miss Moore's screen stories, there is the sort of comedy that is a part of every real-life romance. The hero is a bashful young fellow and there are misunderstandings and lovers' quarrels. He is just the average young fellow struggling along in that blisful, and at the same time often painful, state of being in love."

"There is a great deal of healthy fun, with here and there an approach to a tear and all the way through there is a true, sincere, optimistic note. Miss Moore wisely leaves the tedious love escapades and the drab and depressing 'true-to-life' dramas to others."

"Orchids and Ermine," which was produced by John McCormick for First National Pictures, is today's attraction at the A. & G. theater.

Directed by Alfred Santell, already credited with a long list of comedy-drama successes, the supporting cast includes Jack Mulhall, Sam Hardy, Gwen Lee, Jed Prouty, Alma Bennett, Hedda Hopper, Kate Price, Emily Fitzroy, Caroline Snowden, Yola D'Avril and Brooks Benedict.

Kate Price.

Kate Price, the jovial, motherly actress who reigns as one of the best loved members of Hollywood's film family, plays her familiar type of role in Colleen Moore's new starring picture, "Orchids and Ermine."

As Mrs. McGinnis, a warm-hearted and ready-tongued Irish woman, she provides several moments of fun to the total of comedy in this picture, which was produced by John McCormick for First National.

Miss Price was born in Cork, Ireland, 54 years ago. She played on the stage in the "old country" and continued in theatrical work in the new country when her family moved to Boston. She was nine years old when she came to the United States.

She enlisted in motion pictures in New York in 1905 and after twelve years with the American Vitaphone Company in the East was brought to Hollywood by Mary Pickford in 1917 to play in "Amirilla of Cloveline Alley."

She has played in literally hundreds of pictures, including "The Sea Tiger," "The Desert Flower," "Irene," and "The Cohens and the Kellys," and "Paradise" and countless others. She has black hair and dark brown eyes.

THIS AFTERNOON AND TONIGHT

Colleen Moore.

Did you know that Colleen Moore, recently voted by exhibitors of the country to be the best box office star in motion pictures, sat on an extra bench for six months and then got a job lasting only three days? Well, it's an interesting sidelight on the career of this highly popular First National star.

One day her uncle, Walter Howie, a famous newspaper editor, walked into the offices of the old Essanay company in Chicago. He was astonished to find his lively little niece sitting on the extra bench. Inquiry revealed that she had determined on a film career. When the big editor offered to get her a better part than extra in the movies she refused his aid, asserting that she wanted to "get by" on her own merits. Many times during the six long months of waiting that followed she felt like asking Uncle Walter to help her out, but she fought this temptation off.

Finally, the chance came. The job lasted three days, at $3.50 a day, netting the grand total of $10.50. But a short time later the great D. W. Griffith chanced to meet Miss Moore in her uncle's home. He immediately saw possibilities in Miss Moore and convinced her family that she had a screen future. Within a week she was on her joyous way to California, and her first chance came under the direction of Griffith. A long apprenticeship in small and featured roles, then came a First National contract, "Flaming Youth," stardom and popularity. Her success continued to grow with "So Big," "Sally" and "Irene." "Twinkletoes" and "Orchids and Ermine" are her latest vehicles.

Miss Moore was born in Port Huron, Mich. Most of her childhood was spent in Tampa, Fla., where she was educated at a convent. At the age of ten she became interested in theatricals, organizing an impromptu neighborhood stock company, playing principal roles from heroine to villain and acting as property man. Her family wanted her to become a concert pianist, but a course in a musical conservatory failed to savor her love for histrionics. Colleen is the wife of John McCormick, the highly successful producer of her pictures. They have a beautiful home in Hollywood.

Jack Mulhall.

Jack Mulhall was born in Wappingers Falls, Dutchess County, New York—fifty miles from Grand Central Station, on the 7th of October.

He attended public schools in Wappingers Falls and later St. Mary's Academy. His family migrated to New York City and later to Passaic, New Jersey, where Mulhall began his stage career by playing boy parts in the stock company at Whitesead's theater.

Evidence regarding Jack Mulhall's status in Passaic was given when he visited there a few years ago and was presented with a handsome silver cup inscribed for by the people of that city.

Longing for broader fields, Mulhall sought and obtained roles in various New York productions, the last of which was with Ned Wayburn in "The Producer." At about the time it closed, Grant Coates, who illustrated most of Harold Lloyd's novels, introduced Mulhall and Rex Ingram, the director, who then was writing scripts for the Edison company.

"Come out to the studio and I'll get you into a picture there," invited Ingram. The picture was Hal Reed's "Gold Cash," and the engagement lasted two weeks. "Griffith and McCoy was the leading woman. Then Mulhall joined the original Biograph stock company which included Lillian and Dorothy Gish, Henry Walthall, Mary Pickford, Marshall Neilan, Lionel Barrymore, Antonio Moreno, Blanche Sweet and others."

Mulhall has played for nearly every large producing organization. His recent First National successes include "Orchids and Ermine," with Colleen Moore; "Classified," with Corinne Griffith; "Subway Sadie," and "Just Another Blonde." He also recently had a leading role in "God Gave Me 20 Cents," which opened the New Paramount theater in New York.

Jack Mulhall is five feet eleven inches tall and weighs 155 pounds. He has blue eyes and curly brown hair, is married and has a young son, Jack Jr. He is a first-rate athlete.

A Prohibition Debate.

It was an interesting debate, staged last week in the ancient city of Boston, where Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler and Senator William E. Borah, both eminent Republicans, staged a dramatic duel over the repeal of the prohibition national platform for 1928.

It is refreshing to see prominent men debate an issue. Contrary to the aim of average politicians there was no audience and no money for the debate. But the speakers were sincere and the debate was a real one.

COLLEEN MOORE, THE STAR, STILL STRIVES TO PERFECT WORK

Colleen Moore's Goal Ever Advances With Each New Triumph; Like All Geniuses, She's Never Completely Satisfied.

Colleen Moore always knew she would be a motion picture star. It wasn't egotism or conceit. She just knew, from the time she saw her first motion picture, that some day she herself would be an actress and, she promised herself, a successful one.

She kept a scrapbook with pictures of all the stars out from magazines and newspapers—but one page was blank! That one she reserved for herself when her picture would appear in magazines and her name would blaze forth over theater entrances.

Since then she has achieved stardom but she has never yet filled in the blank page of the scrapbook. That is waiting for the day when she will have reached what she considers her goal. But the goal advances before her and, according to those who know her, it is not likely that she will ever be completely satisfied with her work. So the blank page in the scrapbook is likely to remain blank.

Miss Moore's newest starring picture under her long term contract with First National, is "Orchids and Ermine," which John McCormick produced.

It comes to Bay St. Louis for the first time today and tonight, at the handsome new A. & G. theater, for the formal opening. No one will wish to miss the opening of the theater; no one will wish to miss seeing Colleen Moore.

Leave China to the Chinese.

The situation in China is not too rosy. Foreigners are fleeing the interior and it won't be long before many of them will come home, probably to stay.

The awakening of the vast hordes of Chinese will not be stayed by punitive expeditions. The powers have no right to inflict their regulations upon China, and the day is near when the Chinese will be strong enough to tell them so.

The great clash between the white and yellow races, so freely predicted by many authors, is not necessary. It will come inevitably, and with terrifying effects, unless the "civilized" powers practice to the Chinese what their great religion teaches.

Of course, come what may, we stand with our race even though we are free to admit that "China for the Chinese" is logical and just, and possible of achievement without great bloodshed.

Dollar Comes Back.

The dollar has come back to its former position of strength and stability. The market is showing a strong upward trend and the dollar is once again the dominant force in the world economy.

SO LONG is this trestle that carries the Southern Railroad above the waters of Lake Pontchartrain that the receding land fades from the view of the passenger on the observation platform before land is reached on the opposite side, over five miles away.

Here, for forty-three years, human life and valuable property have depended for safety upon the structural strength of Southern Pine—the wood of the trestle.

Of risk there is none, because science has determined the dependability of Southern Pine. In laboratory and in actual construction, Southern Pine has proved itself supreme in strength—in modulus of rupture, in modulus of elasticity, in shearing resistance and crushing strength. A hundred and thirty thousand tests, in one laboratory alone—the Forest Products Laboratory, maintained by the U. S. Government at Madison, Wis.—form the basis of these statements upon which engineers and architects specify Southern Pine with exact knowledge and complete assurance.

A layman may wonder at the uses to which Southern Pine is put. A layman might be confused with reports of testing laboratories. But to the technical man, there is nothing surprising in the striking uses of Southern Pine. To the technical man, the tables of strength are as plain as signs along the highway are to the motorist.

* These letters at the right of "SPA" identify the grade. The designation here is one of 15 grade-marks appearing on lumber from Southern Pine Association mills.

Whatever your structure, whatever your need of wood in it—the strength of Southern Pine is a matter of importance to you.

Wherever you are, east of the Rocky Mountains, the nearest lumber dealer has Southern Pine in his yard. Wherever you buy, you may buy with assurance, for there is now available from Southern Pine Association mills, Southern Pine that is Trade-marked and Grade-marked.

Nervous hot flashes

"SOME time ago when I was a very nervous, run-down condition," says Mrs. Martha F. Marlow, of Broken Bow, Okla., "I tried numerous remedies to try at least to keep going, but I could not. I was weak and tired—just no good at all. My back ached and I had hot flashes until I was so very nervous I smothered."

"I couldn't sleep and I was never hungry, and I kept getting weaker. I couldn't stand on my feet. This was an unusual condition for me as I had been pretty strong all along. I knew that I would have to do something and that pretty soon."

"Some friend suggested that I take Cardui, and it certainly was a good suggestion, for after taking one bottle I could tell I was stronger and better. I didn't quit. I kept it up and did fine. I felt like a different person after I began taking Cardui."

Cardui has helped thousands of others and should help you, too. Write for all particulars.

Principal Speaker Wednesday Night on Occasion of Publicity Night.

Wednesday was "Publicity night" for the Bay St. Louis Rotary program at the Weston hotel that evening. The program each Wednesday is in charge of members of different committees, and the chairman is given the gavel by the president.

Last Wednesday was turned over to the Publicity committee and as the principal speaker of the evening, the club had as its guests, Hon. Walter C. Gex, of this city, who delivered an address touching on local projects and incidentally on the procrastination which is allowed to hinder their progress and retard the ultimate completion of the betterments to follow.

Mr. Gex touched directly on the different phases in process and participating the benefit to accrue to the people of this community. He said there were over a half billion dollars of improvement on the east side of the Coast, which meant nothing to Bay St. Louis until the Bay bridge was finished and in use, and that the delay on the work corresponding meant so much loss to Bay St. Louis.

He also stressed the importance of building Pine Hills bridge, not as a toll bridge, but as a community project by mutual aid with Pine Hills interests and in this wise annex to Bay Louis easily a project representing three million dollars.

Mr. Gex spoke of projects—not of a series of measures, and would hasten the day when all of these were matters not in the embryo, in process of construction and seemingly held up by no apparent reason, but accomplished. "While I do not think we are faltering," said Mr. Gex, "but I satisfied we are not keeping up with the times and are defaulting in time our present improvements would be finished."

He was given a warm ovation and the conclusion of his address given a ringing vote of thanks.

Mrs. Adrian Reed was killed out-city attorney Robt. L. Genin, speaking before the city of Bay St. Louis, spoke of the many modern buildings with its what it meant to Bay St. Louis, contrasting the former one-story building of that today, and growing sentiment, he said, "We must treat our city as a child with that same reverence and care, from mismanagement and abuse as we tend to treat our children." He said the building of yesterday, which will be taken down and put to other use. This is your building," he said to the pupils, "and we are going to take care of it and take care of it so that no finger will ever mar its immaculate or deface its classic lines."

Mayor G. Y. Blaize Present.

Mayor Blaize occupied the seat of honor on the stage. The building of the new schoolhouse was one of the prides of the mayor when he was a candidate for the office of chief magistrate. He had pledged himself privately to every voter, but to every woman and child that if he were elected, he would exert every effort for influence for a new school building, as he stated at the time.
